SENATE MEETS TO CENSURE M'CARTHY

Ike Believes Lasting Peace Chance Bright

President Says U.S. Again Resolves 'There Will Be No More War'

BOSTON (AP) — President Eisenhower declared today "the specter of war looms less threateningly" than in a long time "despite the instance of provocation" stemming from the shooting down of an American plane by Russian - built fighter craft.

A U. S. Air Force photo mapping plane was shot down by two Russian built MIG-type fighter planes Saturday, according to an Air Force announcement.

Departing from his text in addressing the 27th convention of the National Council of Catholic Women, the President said, after declaring the prospects for an enduring and lasting peace are the brightest in years:

"Despite such instances of provocation as that which took place yesterday off the coast of Japan, the specter of war looms less threateningly over all mankind."

The President said that the quest for an "enduring and lasting" peace "must be the overriding goal of our foreign policy." He said:

"IT IS NOT paradoxical in our peaceful efforts that we maintain powerful military forces. For in a world partly dominated by men who respect only guns, planes and tanks, these weapons are essential to our survival."

The President noted he was speaking on the 12th anniversary of the landing of the first American troops in North Africa during World War II.

"As we look back on that day, and on the most terrible war in human history, we again resolve that there must never be another war," Eisenhower declared.

Police Study Pike County Twin Slaying

WAVERLY (AP) — Pike County Sheriff Jess H. Foster today sought to establish the motive for a double slaying as he prepared to file murder charges against a 62-year-old man.

The victims were James A. Lett, 54, who lives near Beaver in Pike County, and Mrs. Miltha C. Jones, 52, who was visiting him at the time. The man arrested by the sheriff lives in the vicinity.

The slaying occurred Saturday night. Lett was felled by a single blast from a single-barreled shotgun fired through a window of his home. Mrs. Jones was clubbed to death with another shotgun.

The man under arrest told the sheriff he remembered nothing that happened during the time the two were killed. He and three companions had stopped at the Lett home on their way home from Waverly.

One of the arrested man's companions, George Davis, entered the Lett home and started talking to Lett, the sheriff said. Then a shotgun was fired through a window, fatally wounding Lett. Some of the pellets struck Davis.

Davis ran into the kitchen where Mrs. Jones was. A second blast, fired through a rear door, struck Davis in the arm and Mrs. Jones in the back, the sheriff said.

The sheriff found a broken double-barreled shotgun near Mrs. Jones' body. The Pike County coroner, Dr. Mack E. Moore, said her death was caused by blows on the head from the shotgun and not by the shot. Davis' wounds were minor, and he was released after being treated by the coroner.

Red Jets Down Another U. S. Plane Over Northern Japan

TOKYO (AP) — U. S. airmen charged today that two Russian jet fighters pounced without warning on a U. S. plane on a photo mission over northern Japan yesterday and shot it down in flames.

Ten of the big four-engine RB-29's 11 crewmen parachuted to safety, moments before their plane crashed in northern Hokkaido, a few miles from the Russian-held Kurile Islands. The 11th crewman drowned after bailing out.

In Washington, the State Department said it was protesting the incident to Moscow.

In Tokyo, Gen. John E. Hull, U. S. Far East commander, said the direction of the crippled plane's fall "completely negates" any possible Soviet claim that the plane was over Russian territory. He accused the Russians of a "piratical" attack.

Capt. Anthony F. Feith, the RB-29 captain, said his plane was "never closer than 15 miles" to Russian territory.

Feith, 35, of Chester, Pa., said: "I was approximately nine miles off Hokkaido and was never closer than 15 miles to the area the Russians consider their own. When fired upon we were even further away. We were headed toward land."

The attack came, he said, just as his plane had finished the first of three scheduled photo runs over northern Hokkaido, Japan's northernmost island. His plane, he said, was at about 17,000 feet and just off the Hokkaido coast, southwest of the easternmost tip of the Nemuro Isthmus. This would put the plane well to the south and west on the Japanese side of the narrow strait of water that separates Hokkaido from the Soviet-held islands.

Asked if the Russian planes at any time intruded inside the three-mile limit marking Japanese waters, Feith said:

"Yes, I would say they were on their last pass."

Feith said when the MIGs were first spotted rising from about 10,000 feet he told his crew, "I don't think they would attack."

But moments later A. Z. C. Walters, New York City, shouted: "They're firing."

The MIGs made two passes each, blasting at the big RB-29 with both cannon and machineguns.

Feith said his plane lurched. Flames, touched off by gasoline spewing from a wing tank, enveloped part of the craft.

Moments later Feith ordered the crew to bail out.

"Everyone cleared the ship," he said.

Although the RB-29 was armed, Feith said he could see no advantage in returning the Russian fire. His copilot, 1st Lt. David N. Oliver, Corvallis, Ore., said:

"I don't like getting shot at. I was mad. But like the captain said, there was nothing to be gained by shooting at them."

The bailout occurred over a 10-mile strip as the burning plane floundered inland. It crashed about 35 miles from the attack area, scene of several clashes between U. S. and Soviet planes in past months.

All but one of the men were picked up. The 11th, the second man out of the plane, was found drowned, tangled in his chute. His name was withheld.

CD Alert Here Will Not Stop Cars On Road

Circleville Schools Holding Trial Run Probably Monday

No traffic will be halted here but city schools will hold a drill when the proposed six-state Civil Defense alert comes off before Wednesday.

Bernard Tait, Pickaway County CD director, revealed that the alert will be signalled by sirens on the cars from the police and sheriff's department. This will be a three-minute blast.

Chief Air Raid Warden Roger McLaughlin said that all pedestrians will be cleared from the streets.

The all clear will be three one-minute siren blasts.

GEORGE HARTMAN, superintendent of Circleville schools, revealed that schools will hold a trial run, probably on Monday. Places throughout the buildings have already been designated as bomb shelter areas, he added.

State Patrolman Gene Miller said that his orders are only to relay the alert message. He added that Patrol auxiliaries who participate will fill out cards noting when they received the relay.

There will be no advanced warning of the alert. Tait said he felt the alert might even come at night.

Life Savings 'Banked' On Window Ledge

CLEVELAND (AP) — White-haired James Cranney, 84, decided yesterday it was high time he put his life savings into a safe place.

So he stuffed $1,165 into his wallet, went to a church and asked the pastor to put the money in a safe deposit box for him. But the pastor told him to take it to a bank.

Being unfamiliar with banks, Cranney did not know they were closed on the Sabbath. He went to a bus stop in front of a store to wait for a ride downtown.

He tells what happened: "Well, I took out me pipe. And so I could light it, I put me wallet on the window ledge. I lit me pipe, then—swoosh — along comes me bus. I put out me pipe, I grab me cane and I get aboard the bus.

"I sit down, and I look out the window. Then all of a sudden it dawns on me—me wallet!"

By the time he could get off that bus and get another one back downtown, his wallet was gone.

Nonstop Atlantic Flight Is Success

PARIS (AP) — San Franciscan Max Conrad completed his first nonstop flight across the Atlantic yesterday, landing his light two-engine Piper Apache safely near Paris 22 hours and 23 minutes after taking off from New York.

It was the 49-year-old flier's fifth solo transatlantic flight. He said he wasn't tired by the flight, just needed "to relax a bit." He described his flight as uneventful, with the weather generally good, but added he "ran into a belt of bad weather over the North Atlantic and had to go through some snow and ice."

Fayette Judge Dies

WASHINGTON C. H. (AP) — Funeral services will be held here Wednesday for Probate Judge Rell G. Allen, 84, of Fayette County, who died Sunday in a Columbus hospital.

AMA Chieftain Says Doctor Must Have Faith In God

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Dr. Elmer Hess, president-elect of the American Medical Assn., said today any doctor "who lacks faith in the Supreme Being" has no right to practice medicine.

"A physician who walks into a sick room is not alone," said the Erie, Pa., doctor, who is a specialist in urology. "He can only minister to the ailing person with the material tools of scientific medicine. His faith in a higher power does the rest."

"Show me the doctor who denies the existence of the Supreme Being and I will say that he has no right to practice the healing art."

Hess made the statements in a prepared digest of extemporaneous remarks he planned for the opening of the 48th annual meeting of the Southern Medical Assn. The SMA, with a total membership of 10,000 doctors, ranks second only to the AMA as the largest general medical organization in the U. S.

"Our medical schools are doing a magnificent job of teaching the fundamentals of scientific medicine," declared Hess. "However, I'm afraid that the concentration on basic science is so great the teaching of spiritual values is almost neglected."

At another point he said: "Any man who enters the medical profession with financial gain as his sole objective is a discredit to his colleagues. The market place is where you go to make money, not the sick room. Doctors take care of sick folks—period."

The AMA official declared that organization has launched a long-range program designed to solve the medical care problems of the indigent and the chronically ill.

"Special attention must be given," he said, "to the problems of those who are unable to pay for their own medical care, or buy insurance to protect themselves against such costs. We are urging state and county medical societies to make this a major project."

U.S. Envoy, Russian Boss Dine, Trade Vodka Toasts

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov and U. S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen dined at the same table last night and talked seriously for half an hour afterwards. The occasion was a big Kremlin banquet celebrating the 37th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

The traditional Red Square military parade lasted only 20 minutes this year, and an air show was canceled because of an overcast sky. A speech by Defense Minister Marshal Nikolai Bulganin avoided the usual blasts at the United States.

The conversation between Bohlen and Malenkov, amid the hubbub of the party for 2,000 ranking Soviets and foreign diplomats, was the first time the two had gotten together since Stalin's death.

Questioned later, the American envoy gave no hint what they talked about. He said only: "No business was transacted."

An hour-long talk that Malenkov and Communist Party Secretary

Nikita Khrushchev had with Yugoslav Ambassador Dobrovoje Vidic a little later stirred almost as much curiosity as the Bohlen-Malenkov talk.

EARLIER anniversary speeches by Soviet leaders had hinted at a revival of friendship with Yugoslavia, the only Communist country outside the Soviet bloc.

The gala dinner party, in the Kremlin's ornate St. George Hall, wound up a two-day celebration of Russia's biggest holiday.

Bohlen sat with 27 other guests at the main table. Included were the members of the Soviet Presidium and the British, French, Indian, Burmese, Indonesian, Polish and Communist Chinese ambassadors and their wives.

Five hundred others ate from buffet tables around the hall, and the feast was spread in a series of other rooms.

The honored guests raised their vodka glasses in 15 formal toasts while an intrigued, eavesdropping throng hovered about the main table.

Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, smiling host at the affair, proposed that "both Soviet and American diplomats should strive for better understanding between our two countries."

Bohlen complimented Molotov as the "most experienced diplomat in this room" and drank to his "next visit to Washington." The American envoy then leaned back in his chair and pointed out to reporters that this actually was not an invitation.

Both promised to pray for the other's child today, when Geraldine Annesse, 15, will be buried and Peter Makarewicz, also 15, will answer in court to murder.

Mrs. Adrienne Makarewicz and Mrs. Mary Annesse met in the latter's home yesterday for the first time since Geraldine's nude body was found Friday morning in a two-car garage at the rear of her home.

Dist. Atty. Myron G. Lane said the girl was strangled in a sex attack.

"I'm sorry—so sorry," sobbed Mrs. Makarewicz.

"I'm sorry for you too," Mrs. Annesse cried. "May God have mercy on your boy."

Mr. and Mrs. Makarewicz later went to the funeral home and prayed at Geraldine's bier. The accused boy's mother fell to her knees and wept: "Oh, my God, my dear, dear God, have mercy."

Mrs. Annesse arrived at the funeral home a short time later and again the two grief-stricken mothers embraced and wept as they tried to console each other.

The Makarewicz and Annesse families live in three-family houses separated only by a vacant lot. Geraldine and Peter knew each other nearly all their lives but they seldom went out together.

Lane said Makarewicz signed a statement saying he hid in the garage until Geraldine came home from a double date about 10 p. m. Thursday night and called to her as she walked by.

Ohio's December Draft Call Set

COLUMBUS (AP) — The Ohio Selective Service headquarters today announced the December induction call for 1,282 men. The youngest registrant who may be inducted on this call must be 20 years and one month of age on the day of induction unless he is a volunteer or delinquent from a previous call.

The individual county quotas include: Clinton 5, Fayette 3, Hocking 2, Pickaway 3, Van Wert 5.

Joe Labels Procedure As 'Lynching Bee'

Wisconsin Solon Admits In Advance His Goose Cooked

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate convened in extraordinary session today to consider censuring Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.), and McCarthy himself, forecasting the vote will be against him, labeled the whole procedure a "lynching bee."

Predictions as to when the Senate might get around to voting ranged from two weeks or so upward. A delay developed just before the Senate convened on the mechanics of getting down to the issue.

The special committee which has recommended censure of McCarthy decided to wait until Wednesday before drafting a formal resolution of censure.

Chairman Watkins (R-Utah) said the decision of a delay was due to the absence of one member of the special committee, Sen. Ervin (D-NC), who remained at home because of the death of Go. William B. Umstead of North Carolina.

Watkins said he would go ahead, however, and present the committee's report.

IT WAS MADE public when the group decided unanimously several weeks ago McCarthy should be censured for contempt of a Senate subcommittee and for abusive language to an Army officer, Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker, who was a witness last winter before McCarthy.

McCarthy predicted that a combination of Democrats and "so-called liberals" Republicans will carry the day against him.

"They have plenty of votes—enough," he said as he blamed campaign tactics of President Eisenhower, among other GOP leaders, for the loss of Congress to the Democrats last election.

It is the first time in 25 years that a senator has been brought (Continued on Page Two)

Two Mothers Weep At Bier Of Slain Girl

NORWOOD, Mass. (AP) — The mother of a slain girl and the mother of a boy accused of the slaying locked in a tearful embrace yesterday in an emotional scene of mutual compassion.

Both promised to pray for the other's child today, when Geraldine Annesse, 15, will be buried and Peter Makarewicz, also 15, will answer in court to murder.

Mrs. Adrienne Makarewicz and Mrs. Mary Annesse met in the latter's home yesterday for the first time since Geraldine's nude body was found Friday morning in a two-car garage at the rear of her home.

Jet Fuel Leakage Keeps Road Closed

COLUMBUS (AP) — Jet fuel leakage at Lockbourne AFB will keep a nearby segment of Ohio 665 closed for several days, base officials estimated today.

A 24-hour fire guard has been posted at the affected area where an estimated 50,000 gallons of the fuel, comparable to kerosene, leaked from an underground tank Saturday.

up before his colleagues on censure charges. In the nation's history only three senators have been censured.

McCarthy has said he will not defend himself against the charges but will speak at length to inform the public on the issues.

The Watkins committee was composed of three Republicans and three Democratic senators.

McCarthy yesterday repeated his charges that three of the six were prejudiced against him. He called the committee's unanimous report "silly."

McCarthy said the vote will go against him on purely political grounds, not on the basis of anything in the report.

HE ALSO SAID he thought the Republicans might well have kept control of Congress if their campaign speakers had hit hard on the Communists - in government issue from the first.

"I was rather surprised," he said, "to find our good President avoiding it to a great extent."

But he said he thought Vice President Nixon "did a good job" of stressing the Reds-in-government issue in the campaign.

A vote of censure would have no legal effect, beyond an official rebuke, on the 44-year-old McCarthy. Sen. Monroney (D-Okla.) said such a vote would, however, "have a bearing on the acceptance of what he (McCarthy) says as a senator when it reaches the American public."

Monroney agreed with McCarthy's forecast that a vote to censure will be forthcoming.

Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill.) reaffirmed last night his intention of voting against the censure move. But he refused to go along with McCarthy's "lynching base" comment or the Wisconsin senator's charge that the Watkins committee was "stacked" against him.

Dirksen, long a McCarthy admirer, said he couldn't imagine such things happening in a body with "the integrity and probity" of the Senate.

U.S. Politicians Again Talking Like Politicians

Some Sour Notes Heard Concerning Future Ike-Dem Cooperation

WASHINGTON (AP)—The postelection theme of harmony between President Eisenhower and the Democratic 84th Congress echoed some dissonant notes today in the wake of an exchange between party chairmen and new statements by Democratic leaders.

Democratic National Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell said yesterday that Vice President Nixon should "retract and apologize for his campaign excesses."

If Nixon continues, Mitchell added, "I hope that the President will take the opportunity to disassociate himself from such character assassination by public disavowal."

Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall replied of Mitchell's remarks: "This is in the worst possible taste and in the worst possible public interest" coming at a time when, Hall said, responsible leaders in Congress are pledging cooperation.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas who will be majority floor leader when the Democrats organize the new Senate in January, publicly criticized some of President Eisenhower's campaign remarks at a news conference Saturday.

HE ALSO SET out certain conditions for cooperation of Democratic congressional leaders during the next two years.

If the Republican administration wants Democrats to cooperate then it must consult with them in advance of making final decisions, he said.

It was learned that Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California later proposed periodic conferences between Eisenhower and both Democratic and Republican leaders of Congress.

"The President now has had his little fling in the political arena," Johnson said, referring to Eisenhower's campaign statement that election of a Democratic Congress might bring on "a cold war of partisan politics."

At his postelection news conference, Eisenhower said that statement was too strong for what he had in mind.

Johnson said talk about a "cold war" because of the political division is ridiculous and added: "If there is a cold war, the Democrats are not going to provoke it."

He declared also that "many Democrats deeply resent the charges and unjust accusations made in the last campaign."

Sam Rayburn of Texas, who will be the new speaker of the House, was a case in point. He made it plain he did not like Republican campaign speechmakers' labeling the entire Democratic party as pinks and leftwingers.

The New York Times, long a staunch backer of Eisenhower, yesterday reported that there were some Republicans who thought tactics used by Nixon were ill-advised.

Coroner Admits Own Blood May Have 'Drowned' Victim

CLEVELAND (AP)—Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard's defense attorney managed a suggestion today that the osteopath's wife may have strangled or "drowned" in her own blood, or even died of shock.

Dr. Lester Adelson, chief deputy Cuyahoga County coroner, conceded that under certain circumstances such a form of death might occur to a person.

Dr. Adelson, first state witness in the first degree murder trial of 30-year-old Dr. Sheppard, had testified the autopsy on the body of the slain Marilyn revealed that she died of a splintered skull.

Defense Attorney William J. Corrigan, in the third day of cross examining Dr. Adelson, got him to concede that Mrs. Sheppard's windpipe was clogged with blood and that there was blood in her lungs.

The lawyer then asked if such blood in the windpipe and lungs might not cause death by cutting off oxygen to the victim.

"IT MIGHT," Dr. Adelson replied. "Did it?" Corrigan persisted.

"I can't say that," Dr. Adelson told him. "You make no mention of this in the autopsy report," Corrigan said.

"No, may I explain why?" the deputy coroner said. "No, you can explain to the prosecutor if you want to," Corrigan told him.

Corrigan also accused the small, mustached Adelson of using an "unscientific method" in his inspection of the murdered woman.

Solons To Probe Swindle Of GIs

CINCINNATI (AP)—Rep. Hess (R-Ohio) said last night a House Armed Service subcommittee will start an investigation tomorrow of charges that GIs in Europe are being swindled at the rate of $8 million a year.

He said the investigation was prompted by a magazine article entitled "How to Steal $8 million a Year" and by information secured by a committee investigator in Spain. Reports claim racketeers gain the money through food, whiskey and insurance deals.

At his postelection news conference, Eisenhower said that statement was too strong for what he had in mind.

Johnson said talk about a "cold war" because of the political division is ridiculous and added: "If there is a cold war, the Democrats are not going to provoke it."

He declared also that "many Democrats deeply resent the charges and unjust accusations made in the last campaign."

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Queen Elizabeth of the United Kingdom is expected to visit the U. S. Naval Academy.

Wins Upper Room World Fellowship Award

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Dr. John A. Mackay, right, former missionary, now president of Princeton Theological Seminary and the Presbyterian World Alliance and chairman of the International Missionary Council, is shown receiving the citation for outstanding leadership in the field of world Christian Fellowship awarded annually by the U. S. Navy.

The Upper Room, international and interdenominational daily devotional guide, Dr. J. Manning Potts, of Nashville, Tennessee, editor of The Upper Room, presented the citation at the National Press Club here before more than two hundred churchmen and leaders in the field of World Christian Fellowship. In accepting the award, Dr. Mackay called The Upper Room, with its 27 editions and 22 languages and in Braille, "the most truly ecumenical publication issued today."

This daily devotional guide is part of the ministry of more than 65,000 churches in the United States. It is also part of the ministry of hundreds of chaplains serving with the armed forces. Ike Believes Lasting Peace Chance Bright

ers of our land rejoice that the possibility of peace is more promising than at any time in recent years.

"All of us are profoundly thankful that the terrible specter of war looms less threateningly over all mankind."

The President said the struggle for a lasting world peace must be waged through the United Nations and in every other possible way.

In appealing for a better international understanding, Eisenhower said that "above all we need the religious quality of compassion—the ability to feel the emotions of others as though they were our own."

"If mothers in every land could teach their children to understand the homes and hopes of children in every other land—in America, in Europe, in the Near East, in Asia—the cause of peace in the world would indeed be nobly served."

Military Eyes New Centers For Commands

WASHINGTON (AP)—The military, with an eye on the hydrogen bomb, is taking another look at plans for alternate emergency command posts if the capital faces air attack.

Questions have been raised over the wisdom of concentrating the military high command at a single location, such as the man-made cavern in western Maryland.

While that underground installation would be used for its original purpose of a central emergency communications center, it might not become the temporary headquarters for the entire Joint Chiefs of Staff and military commands of the three major services or an alternate Pentagon.

Instead, consideration has veered lately toward a dispersal of the headquarters of the several armed forces to separate points outside the capital area. Initial thinking was toward use of established military centers, such as Ft. Belvoir, Va., about 15 miles south of the District of Columbia; Ft. Meade, Md., about 20 miles east; and Norfolk, Va., 150 miles south.

But a re-evaluation of the potentialities of the hydrogen bomb, made after the giant test explosion at the Marshall Islands proving ground last spring, apparently has brought new ideas about the blast destruction. Estimates of the zone of major damage from H-bomb blast effect alone run as much as 150 miles from center.

While the underground installation at Ft. Ritchie, about 70 miles northwest of Washington in Frederick County, Md., presumably would escape the blast of a bomb exploded over the capital, it could be vulnerable to one dropped with the purpose of "cratering out" the subterranean installation.

WALTER PHERSON
Walter E. Pherson, 77, died at 9 a. m. Sunday in his residence at Pherson.

Surviving him are his wife, Jessie Pherson; a son, Owen of Cline Rd., Columbus; a daughter, Mrs. Ruth Smith of Pickaway County; a brother, Elbert, also of Pickaway County, and three sisters, Mrs. Grace Downs of near Williamsport; Mrs. Ella Southward of Circleville and Mrs. Rilla Baker.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday in Pherson church. Burial will be in the Darbyville Cemetery, by direction of the Snyder Funeral Home of Mt. Sterling.

Friends may call in the funeral home at any time.

MRS. EMMA J. WARDELL
Emma J. Wardell died Monday at 4 a. m. in a Columbus rest home following a lengthy illness.

Mrs. Wardell, whose husband John died in 1933, was 86 years old. She was born in Circleville on June 7, 1868 the daughter of Conrad and Barbara Clouse Barthelmas.

She was the last of her family. Her daughter, Mrs. Sanford Jennings, of Columbus, and several nieces and nephews are the only survivors. Mrs. Wardell was a member of the Circleville Trinity Lutheran Church.

Funeral services, led by the Rev. Carl Zeher, will be held Wednesday at 2 p. m. at the Mader Chapel. Burial will follow in Forest Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home on Tuesday from 3 p. m. to 9 p. m.

Billy Graham Now 36 Years Old

DALLAS (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham marked his 36th birthday yesterday by preaching at Dallas' First Baptist Church.

He preached against "covetousness . . . the root of all sins."

Before his sermon, he received a Bible for a birthday present from pastor W. A. Criswell on behalf of the congregation.

THIS IS the windup of a gangland style "ride" which backfired in Brooklyn, N.Y. The intended victim, Anthony Governati, still alive but dazed from a head blow, sits against the fence. Body of one of the alleged kidnapers, Dominick Sorresi, is stretched across auto seat. Driver Andrea Bommarito stands next to policeman. A third foe of Governati's, Rosario Marceca, was shot in the chest. It happened like this: Sorresi, angry because Governati outbid him for a farm in Sicily, got together with Bommarito and Marceca, and the three offered Governati a ride. The ride wound up with Governati's being struck over the head with a pipe. But when Marceca tried to shoot Governati, the intended victim flailed at the gun, and the bullet went through Sorresi's forehead. Marceca tried again, and this time the gun was twisted so that he shot himself in the chest. By then the police, called by a nearby resident, arrived on the scene.

Parenthood Profits High

NEW YORK (AP)—Fatherhood to a successful race horse often beats an old age pension.

Take Native Dancer, for example. The big gray stallion, fourth biggest money winner in American turf history, racked up $785,240 in 22 starts and lost only one race, the Kentucky Derby, by a nose.

Now retired, he may earn even more money through planned parenthood in his leisure years than he did during his brief, fabulous track career.

"It's quite possible, if he lives long enough," said his owner, Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt. The Dancer, whose stud fee is $5,000 already has a full calendar for his first year as a sire. He has been booked for 40 engagements.

Whether he continues to earn $200,000 a year as a career father depends on whether he transmits to his offspring his own dazzling speed, heart and strength.

Only time can determine that. But the Dancer's own tremendous record has given him a head start in his new vocation. In developing thoroughbreds, owners generally follow the maxim, "you breed the best to the best and hope for the best."

Native Dancer's $5,000 stud fee is high, but there have been higher. There are perhaps 20 American stallions that get a $2,000 to $3,000 stud fee. In some cases the fee is paid only if the breeding results in a live foal.

The influence of a stallion's age on the quality of his offspring is highly debatable.

Native Dancer's famous grandfather, Discovery, was put to stud at the age of six. He will be 24 next spring, and is still active, although the number of his engagements has been cut gradually from 40 a year down to 12.

"But he's got more good horses the last five years than he did the first five years," remarked Vanderbilt.

Great track performers don't always go on to become the greatest sires. The fabulous Man O'War, still regarded by many as the racehorse of the century, led American sires only one year. In 1926 his offspring won 49 races and $408,137.

The most successful living sire, Bull Lea, not yet old enough to vote, never set any big money records in his saddle—wearing prime.

He was put out to stud in 1940 at the age of six. Since 1947 he has led the sire list every year except 1950 and 1951. Bull Lea's offspring earned at least $1 million in four of those years. In 1947 they set the modern record in track winning—$1,630,655.

Cabbie Nips Thug, Gains Overcoat

BALTIMORE (AP)—Taxicab driver Melvin Benton not only resisted a holdup here last night but he also wound up with a tweed overcoat left by the man who tried to rob him.

Police said Benton reported he yelled and kicked a passenger beside him when the other passenger in the cab seized him from behind.

Both Negro passengers ran. The man who had been in the back seat left his overcoat behind.

After 28 Long Years In Jail, Man Is Freed

WINCHESTER, Va. (AP)—A World War I veteran who spent 28 years in prison on an illegal rape conviction was grateful here today for his release.

Resting at a nursing home here, Lorenzo Puffinberger, 59, said, "I sure want to thank the good people for getting me out of there."

Puffinberger was sentenced in 1926 to life imprisonment on a rape charge. He entered the state penitentiary that year and in 1937 was transferred to the criminally insane ward at Southwestern State Hospital at Marion.

Throughout his imprisonment he steadfastly maintained his innocence. With the aid of the local Red Cross chapter and the Winchester Farmers and Merchants National Bank, the case was brought before Circuit Court Judge Elliott Marshall.

Marshall ruled Thursday that Puffinberger had been convicted wrongfully in that he had been denied due process of law. Counsel for the imprisoned man presented evidence to show that he was without legal assistance when convicted in 1926, was not advised of his rights and was without the mental capacity to understand the meaning of the offense or what the charge involved.

Puffinberger, who was a farmer and timber cutter in Frederick county before going to prison, told a reporter he would like to do that work again when he gets well.

Stock Mart Hiked By Poll Results

NEW YORK (AP)—The election was a happy surprise for the stock market last week, and it celebrated with the most vigorous advance in more than 16 years.

On the way up it broke into new high ground for the last 25 years and touched off a major showing of bull market enthusiasm.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced $4.90 on the week, the most that the average has gained in a single week since the final week of June, 1938.

Traffic Lights Get Different Shapes

MOUNT DORA, Fla. (AP)—Even if you're color blind, you can tell what the traffic lights are signaling here. Masks have been fitted over the signals to make green lights square, orange caution lights diamond shaped and red lights circles. Mayor L. L. Heaton, who ordered the system, has a good reason for favoring it. He's color blind himself.

SHIPBUILDING SLUMP

HISTORY IS repeating in the nation's shipyards. Reminiscent of the period between the two world wars, shipbuilding activity has fallen off alarmingly and is continuing to slide.

Officials of major Atlantic Coast shipbuilding yards say the government's recent $460,000,000 building and repair program falls far short of keeping the industry in readiness for a possible all out mobilization for national defense.

Employment in the key Eastern Seaboard yards has plummeted from a World War II peak of 151,000 to fewer than 28,000 and is expected to dip below 20,000 next year. This reveals not only a wasteful dissipation of skills and technical know-how, but also suggests that shipbuilding research and development activity must be grinding to a halt.

It is imperative that the nation face up to the fact that its shipyards cannot operate in competition with foreign shipyards unless their costs are trimmed, in spite of huge government orders and subsidies. Surely something will be done to insure continuation of shipbuilding activity at a level that will provide employment for a sizable labor force.

With many World War II bottoms riding into obsolescence the nation may soon need ships as badly as shipyards need the work. Against these imperatives, political considerations become secondary.

CLOSING OUT SALE

SURPLUS GOODS which originally cost the government $26 million are being sold at auction at four different bases in California. Known as "Operations Jumbo," the articles have been listed in a 48-page illustrated catalogue mailed to 10,000 potential buyers in the nation and 13 foreign countries. Advance inquiries show other nations more interested in the selling event than prospects in this country.

The list includes thousands of articles ranging from railway tank cars to men's socks in large quantities. Tents and tarpaulins costing nearly $1.5 million will go on the block. Under stress of war the government spent money freely for every possible need, and often seemingly with poor judgment. For instance, nearly one million auto, truck and bus lamps are offered for sale. The boys who placed that order must have set their sights high.

With exception of the goods which will go to foreign countries, most of this merchandise will go to surplus goods brokers, later to be distributed through retailers. The goods are new and unused, and the government expects to take a terrific loss on the transactions. War is waste, and vice versa.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

As the election figures are studied, no trend is found, no unmistakable public response to any great party pronouncements or a public challenge to party officials. It is impossible to say that the election was pro- or anti-Eisenhower.

The narrow margins are convincing that the Republicans might have managed to win hands down had they not, with characteristic ineptitude, embroiled themselves in intra-party conflicts in several states. On that, of course, there will be wide disagreement both as to cause and effect and one can let the subject pass without too much concern at this time.

The question is of the future. President Eisenhower continues to speak of the moderate approach to public problems which describes inadequately what that approach is. Who desires an immoderate approach and what is the nature of it? Until we know the extremities, it is impossible ever to know where the middle is. In Roosevelt's time, the phrase used to be "left of center," with the center undefined. Perhaps the reason for this queer election is that no one can truly state what anyone believes to be the truth.

During the campaign, when it was generally held that the Democrats, supported by organized labor, would win an enormous victory, it was often suggested that President Eisenhower would declare himself as a one-term President, that he would not run in 1956.

No authority was ever cited for such a statement, but it was, from a political standpoint, a confusing one, because if it becomes generally believed, it can increase the conflicts within the Republican Party by stimulating too many ambitions. It is true that President Eisenhower has made no public pronouncement on the subject.

It is customary in the United States for a President to run for two terms, even if he is not always elected to the second term. President Eisenhower is entitled to a second chance in 1956 and it ought to be understood that he will take it. If that is now iterated, Republican aspirants will have to step back to await their opportunity.

No one in the Republican Party comes out of this election so greatly confirmed by the American people as to be an outstanding contestant for President Eisenhower's post. There still is no successor in party leadership to Senator Robert A. Taft.

In the Democratic Party, no one has created for himself so great a reputation as to be outstanding. While Adlai Stevenson assumed active leadership in the campaign, making speeches almost daily all over the country, the result of the election is not sufficient to establish that his participation in the campaign made much difference.

No other Democratic personality emerged as an astonishing figure, except J. Strom Thurmond, whose write-in victory was surprising to the country, but which undoubtedly was the result of special local conditions in South Carolina with which other parts of the country are not familiar.

Averell Harriman, whom friends before Election Day were grooming for the Presidential nomination, received too narrow a majority to be regarded as significant from a national standpoint. He may now even have difficulty in controlling the New York (Continued on Page Seven)

Importance of Sports In School Boy's Life

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

WITH college and high school football in full swing, school sports are again playing an important part in the lives of many youths.

Unfortunately, however, there are some boys who have a tendency to slight this side of life or to stay away from it entirely. Some youths feel their studies need all their attention. Still others are listless, or feel it is just too much trouble to spend spare time at sports.

He Loses By Shirking

Sports do have a place in just about everyone's life. The youth who shirks the school athletic program is, as a rule, cheating himself.

You may seem to be awkward when it comes to sports. But that is all the more reason why you should want to polish up your performance in some of them.

You not only develop your muscles by taking part in sports programs, but you also learn the mental peace and relaxation that comes with exercise of your physical powers.

Outlet for Tensions

Many times you will find that sports programs open up pleasant social opportunities you might not otherwise have had. Then, too, a sport is a fine outlet for mental and emotional tensions throughout your adult life. You don't have to be an expert.

You do not even have to be reasonably proficient, although you probably will become so. The main thing is that you enjoy yourself.

It might be well if every teenager boy in our modern times learned at least one of the techniques of self-defense, such as boxing, wrestling or judo. It would also be wise to learn some sport or games that you can carry through the rest of your life, such as golf, archery and the like.

Any boy can find some enjoyable outdoor activity. You will pick up these techniques much more easily in your early teens than if you wait until you are older.

And, remember, the individual who develops his body as well as his brain is a fully developed person.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Q. F.: What foods are beneficial to a person with a low blood count?

A.: By low blood count is meant a lessening of the number of red cells in the blood and the amount of coloring in blood cells known as hemoglobin.

Foods rich in iron, such as meat, particularly liver, green vegetables, egg yolk, and whole grain cereals are helpful. Some iron-containing preparations may be utilized, under the doctor's direction.

Looking Back In Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO
The Rev. Donald Mitchell was guest speaker at a meeting of the Child Culture League.

Programs on Pakistan were presented at meetings of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the county Methodist churches.

A new GOP Booster club was organized for the county in a meeting held in the Five Points school.

Circleville City schools exceeded their goal in a Community War Chest drive by more than $200.

Extremely heavy voting in Circleville and the county brought predictions of a record county vote to be cast in this year's elections.

Mrs. Walter Heine was elected president of Mrs. Marion's Sunday School Class of the Methodist church.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
A petition for a traffic light at Main and Washington Sts. was made at a city council meeting.

Fire Chief Talmer Wise made an inspection of the schools of the city and county and conducted fire drills.

A local man, convicted by a jury in common pleas court on a chicken theft charge, was sentenced to the Ohio State Penitentiary for from three to 15 years.

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE

EILEEN FORTUNE gazed at me with big eyes, her small mouth trembling. Her face looked puffy and her gray, wide-spaced eyes were swollen and red. A strand of blond hair fell over one cheek. She wore a faded high-necked nightgown of a soft cotton material which, I recalled, used to be called muslin, and her feet were bare.

I started to speak, but she cut me off. "It's Ralph," she moaned. "He's gone." She began to sob loudly, her face contorted in an ugly mask of grief.

"No, listen—" "He's dead!" she cried. "You've come to tell me he's dead. Don't try to spare me." Her sobs grew louder. "Judy killed him!"

I grasped her shoulders. "No, he's not dead." She stopped sobbing and gazed at me wildly. "Tell me the truth!" "Get hold of yourself. Ralph's home?"

"What?" "Is your father home?" "No." "I'm sorry to have alarmed you. Where is your father?"

"In town, I guess," she said in a dead voice. "He brought me home from the hospital, and then left. He's probably at Dan's Place. I've tried to make him change his ways, but he persists in drinking, and . . ." Her voice trailed off and she began to dry her eyes with a sleeve of the nightgown.

I handed her a handkerchief, and said, "I saw him at Dan's Place earlier this evening, and I thought he'd be home by now."

She took the handkerchief and dabbed at her red eyes. "I—I couldn't sleep," she said brokenly, "thinking about poor, dear Ralph."

I patted her shoulder in what I hoped was a fatherly manner. The shoulder was round and firm and warm beneath the thin nightgown. "Do you think your father will be home pretty soon?"

"I—I don't know." She used my handkerchief to blow her nose. "Sometimes he stays out all night. I just don't care about anything any more. All I can think about is Ralph, lying there in the hospital. She took a deep shuddering breath and her breasts moved beneath the nightgown. "Papa could have stayed with me tonight, of all nights. I've been so lonely, and afraid."

"It's just little old me," she sniffed, "out here all alone . . ." I backed away and put a hand on the door knob.

She took a tiny step toward me. "Papa will probably be gone all night. On Saturday nights he often plays cards, or something, until daylight." She sighed for lornly and fumbled at the high neck of the nightgown.

I opened the door. The cold air felt good on my face, but Eileen Fortune shivered and folded her arms over her breasts. "It's cold," she said plaintively. "Please close the door." She inched toward me, shivering.

I put an arm around her. There wasn't much else I could do. She huddled against me. "Close the door," she said with chattering teeth.

I kicked the door shut. She said, "Are—are you going back to Cleveland tomorrow?" "I don't know."

"You might stay—because of Ralph?" "Maybe—Sandy will want to stay."

"And you, too?" She looked up at me shyly. "Why?" "I—I just wondered."

I said gently, "Go back to bed, Eileen. I'll see your father later." Her eyes were bewildered. "Are you—angry with little old me?"

"No. Good-night, Eileen." I opened the door and went out. As I drove away I saw that Eileen hadn't turned off the light, and I thought of all the lights in the windows tonight—Daisy Brown's, Judy Kirkland's, Sandy's, Eileen's. Candles lighting the way for those abroad in the night, for all the wayward ones. . . .

It was after one o'clock in the morning when I drove past Daisy Brown's dark house, and on to River Road, and I turned in the moonlight and kept on until I came to Judy Kirkland's sanctuary.

The drapes were pulled, but there was a light downstairs. The red Buick convertible was still in the drive. I stopped behind it, making no effort to be quiet. I was tired of skulking about, and besides I had a half-date with Judy Kirkland. I slammed the Dodge's door, went up to the front door and rattled the brass knocker.

No response. I tried the door. It was unlocked, and I walked in. "Judy," I called, and I kept moving until I reached the bar. This was where the light was, but she wasn't there. I looked into the kitchen. Light from behind me showed the table, the two coffee cups, a saucer filled with cigarette stubs. The whole house was very quiet. Uneasily I turned around. The room looked the same. The typewriter was still on the table.

There was something different about it. Suddenly I knew what it was; there was a sheet of paper in it. I moved over and looked at the paper, and the typed words on it.

"Where is she?" he out in sharply. "At her place, on River Road. I found her."

Try, Stop Me

Even police officers, used to all kinds of criminal quirks, blinked their eyes when a gent in Norfolk, Va., made off with all four tires of a car but spurned a well-filled purse and diamond ring on the front seat. The car owner found this note next to the ring: "Roses are red; violets are blue; we admire your jewels but your tires are new." A hardened criminal, with a flair for poetry, opined the court. Not at all, demurred Pundit E. B. White: a plain case of a confirmed poet who was willing to go to any length in order to place his composition. We string along with Mr. White.

E. B. White tells about a minor adventure in his days as a cub reporter. He was covering the morgue when a man was called in for possible identification of his wife. Somebody pulled back the sheet. The man took one agonizing look and cried, "My God! It's her!" That's how White reported the incident. His city editor, a stickler for proper English, changed it to, "My God! That's she!"

news behind the news

WASHINGTON—Federal judges, including the Supreme Court of the United States, are upholding Franklin D. Roosevelt's forecast that his reforms would survive, despite the election of Republican Presidents and Congresses. He and Harry S. Truman appointed 80 per cent of the federal judiciary. The Democrats still control this important branch of government.

The Supreme Court, which has only two Republican members, recently blocked the Administration's attempt to replace Roosevelt-Truman Democrats in key offices with members of the one true party.

The second highest and Democrat-staffed court in the land, the District of Columbia appeals bench, has, perhaps stymied the Administration in the case of Owen Lattimore, a Roosevelt-Truman adviser, under question as pro-Communist in his sympathies.

COURTS—Even with the election returns, it is the party which controls the courts that runs the country. And only age and death, together with Republican inactivity of the White House for many years, will alter the current equation. It is a neglected factor which the voters rarely keep in mind.

The victorious Republicans set out in 1953 to create vacancies for worthy party servitors, who had helped to elect Eisenhower. They did not do it so audaciously as James A. Farley, postmaster general and patronage dictator in 1933, after F.D.R.'s inaugural.

RULING—"Jim" announced boldly that Democratic allegiance alone was not a qualification for a government job. They had to be "Democrats F.R.B.C.," meaning "Democrats for Roosevelt before Chicago," where the 1932 convention had been held. If they had been for Al Smith, Newton D. Baker or Jack Garner, they were out.

It was the most brazen proclamation of the installation of the spoils system since the days of Martin Van Buren and Andrew Jackson. But the country—and, presumably, the courts—thought it a great joke, appreciated Farley's frankness, and roared with laughter—except those who lost their jobs.

ACTIVITIES—Farley then proceeded to get rid of Republicans and to oust the Civil Service Commission, then a complacent, do-nothing body, in devious ways.

On the ground of economy, F.D.R. abolished, downgraded or renamed the assignments of thousands of federal employees supposedly under Civil Service protection.

When the Republicans were squeezed out by this scheme, they were replaced with Democrats "before Chicago." To secure their positions, Roosevelt and Truman persuaded Democratic Congresses (they did not need much persuasion) to blanket these appointees under Civil Service. Thus, they became political "untouchables."

APPROACH—The Eisenhower Administration has approached the problem more delicately, albeit efficiently. To get rid of Democratic holdovers, it has elevated many posts to so-called "policy-making" stature. Under such a classification, the White House insists, they can be fired and replaced by a Republican.

But a Justice Department lawyer, holding a $10,800-a-year job, was so discharged, mortgaged his home to pay legal fees, and fought this edict in the courts. The Department of Justice reclassification of the lawyer was sustained by the District of Columbia district court, but it was reversed by the appeals court in the same jurisdiction.

The Roosevelt-Truman Supreme Court refused to review the appeals ruling, frowning up the administration's belated attempt to reward party producers of votes.

IRRITATED—The Lattimore decision by Judge Luther W. Youngdahl, who was promoted to the federal bench from the Minnesota Republican governorship for obvious political reasons by Truman, burns President Eisenhower and Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr. Lawyers and judges everywhere are excited over this episode.

Lattimore was condemned by the McCarran committee as an "articulate instrument" of Communist ideas. He was indicted on numerous counts of perjury for denying this and other charges. Youngdahl dismissed the major charges, although government counsel insists that they involve facts to be weighed by a jury.

Youngdahl refused to disqualify himself from trying the anti-Lattimore case, and denounced Brownell for asking that he step aside. He simply emphasized the fact that, as F.D.R. said, the Congress may pass laws, but "my courts" will interpret and execute them!

STORMY TIMES FORESEEN FOR MANY '55 HOLIDAYS

Long-Range Year-Around Weather Forecast Again Features Almanac's 163rd Edition

By Central Press

DUBLIN, N. H.—It may seem a trifle early, but here's a tip in planning your next summer's vacation—take the two weeks spanning Labor Day!

Don't take our word for it, for this tip comes from that prince of prognosticators—old Abraham Weatherwise, the mythical sooth-sayer who again gives his year around weather forecasts in rhyme in the 1955 edition of The Old Farmer's Almanac, just published.

Old Abe has been famous for accurately calling the turn many times on sunshine and storm, months in advance, and he's at it again in the newest edition of The Old Farmer's Almanac.

Nineteen Fifty-Five, according to The Old Farmer's Almanac (which, incidentally, has been in continuous publication for 163 years!), will start rough and end rough with some mighty nice weather sandwiched in between.

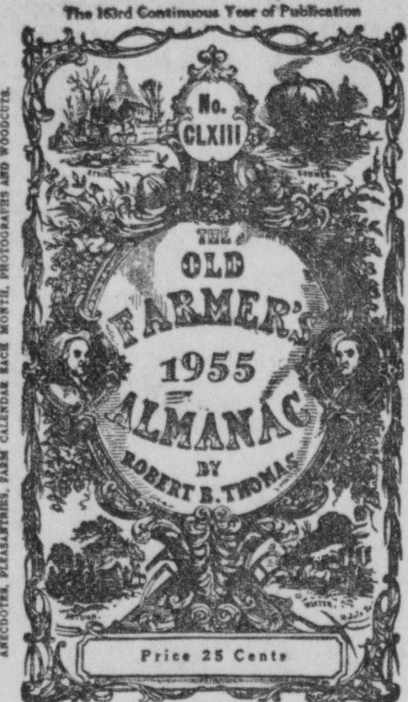

STORMY weather is forecast for New Year's Day, but Lincoln's and Washington's Birthdays should be clear and fine. Most of 1955 holidays, however, are in for a rough time.

Cold winds could make it chilly going for St. Patrick's Day parades, Easter will be cold and foggy and, says Old Abe, we can expect "A dour shower" for Memorial Day. He also sees "Plenty of thunder from way up yonder" on Independence Day.

Following a salubrious Labor Day, Columbus Day also bids fair to bring us fine weather. A northeaster "double prolonged," however, should make things mighty chilly come Thanksgiving. Christmas should be very white; in fact, Old Abe says, "Winter really here the worst in many a year."

THE WEATHER forecasts of Abe Weatherwise are primarily for New England and the east and The Almanac cautions that readers should deduct one day for each time zone west of East Standard Time.

The Old Farmer's Almanac which was established "way back in 1792 by Robert H. Thomas is, to its faithful readers, far more than just a popular annual guide to weather, farmer's calendar, best planting times, etc., but a classic of its kind and a national institution.

The Old Farmer's Almanac cover.

These faithful readers find the little book—from its antique cover design right through its antique woodcuts of the kind of winters Grandpa bragged about—as old-fashioned as a parlor base-burner and as comfortable to settle down beside of a frosty evening. However, it's also modern enough to carry articles on Hurricane Carol and the Smashed Windshield mystery in England this year.

A COUPLE of decades or so ago the then Almanac publishers tried to "modernize" it, the result being a shrinkage of circulation. In 1940 the present publisher, Robb Sagen-dorph, took over.

Sagen-dorph moved the editorial offices to this tiny town of Dublin, resurrected a lot of the old type-faces, resumed printing the "anecdotes and pleasantries" (jokes), long so popular, and revived the Almanac's secret weather-predicting system.

It's claimed that Abe Weather-wise (who, of course, is Sagen-dorph) has outscored on occasion the Weather Bureau in weather prediction accuracy percentages. Incidentally, Sagen-dorph, himself, once paid the penalty for going against one of Old Abe's predictions.

A year ago he was returning from a sojourn in Spain and ran smack-dab into a northeaster which Abe Weatherwise had predicted long before!

empty truck had been filled with water to make it ride more easily when returning from a delivery. But someone overlooked that when the truck was hauled out of the company yards to make the Webster deliveries.

Yule Trading Prospects Said To Be Cheering

Most Merchants See Big Season Ahead With Sales Climbing

NEW YORK (AP)—Christmas trade prospects—with customers believed in a better buying mood than last year—cheer merchants in most cities.

Prices on gifts will be about the same or a little lower this year. But many store owners are expecting to equal and maybe surpass last year's dollar sales volume. Since the largest trading of the year is crowded into the final weeks, the results of the holiday selling make or break the year's earnings record for most stores.

Promotion plans are well along. The National Retail Dry Goods Assn. reports most member stores plan to match last year's record advertising.

The trade is going in heavily this year for gift packaging. A large array of items will be decked out in holiday grab to lure the shopper. Some of the packages are designed for double duty—made usable as containers of various sorts after the gift is removed.

This year merchants will have the advantage of one more shopping day between Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Some 12 million Americans will receive more than one billion dollars in Christmas Club checks this month, for a new record high. Retailers expect almost half of that sum to be spent for Christmas gifts.

And Americans are about as well heeled this year as last. The commerce departments estimates that, after paying taxes, Americans will have had about 253 billion dollars to spend this year. Some of that should still be available for Christmas buying.

The NRDC reports three-fourths of the merchants expect business to be satisfactory this holiday season. The majority say they look for enough of an increase in trade in the next six weeks to bring sales volume for 1954 up to last year's total. So far this year, sales have trailed by about two per cent.

Some merchants are rather gloomy about the profit outlook. Rising operating costs have cut into profit margins and more than a third of the merchants expect their net earnings after taxes will be lower than last year.

Store executives say there's a distinct trend this year toward religious scenes for window displays. Some merchants who tried this last year report that this helped answer a growing criticism in recent years of the commercializing of Christmas.

Imported gifts will equal or top last year's selection, merchants say. Toys, novelties and children's articles lead the list of imports. Britain will be a heavy supplier of goods for the Christmas trade. But Germany has made the biggest gain in this market this year, with increased gift imports reported also from Japan and Italy.

Sales of toys are expected to top last year's volume and to approach the billion dollar mark at retail for the first time. With the number of small fry increasing every year, the toy makers are a pretty happy breed.

Merchants are counting on customers being more generous in their gift buying this year, because now the economy is on the uptick, while last Christmas people were worried about their jobs because the economy was sliding from the peak hit in mid-1953.

Retailers always keep their fingers crossed, however, when the cold and blustering days just before a Christmas could cut heavily into store traffic. And many a good intention about being generous in gift buying might die aborning and never materialize as a jingle in the stores' tills.

Bishop Lashes Detractors Of U.S. Teachers

DES MOINES (AP)—"Men who declare that in every little red school-house there is a little Red teacher bear false witness that is well nigh treason," Methodist Bishop G. Gromley Oxnam of Washington, D. C., told the Iowa State Education Assn. here Saturday.

Bishop Oxnam declared that "the teaching profession deserves better treatment at the hands of the American people."

"It is unfair and un-American," he said, "to call upon our teachers to serve in crowded classrooms and in antiquated structures for inadequate remuneration. But what is even worse, the teacher has had to face the criticism of ignoramuses who have gratuitously questioned the teacher's patriotism."

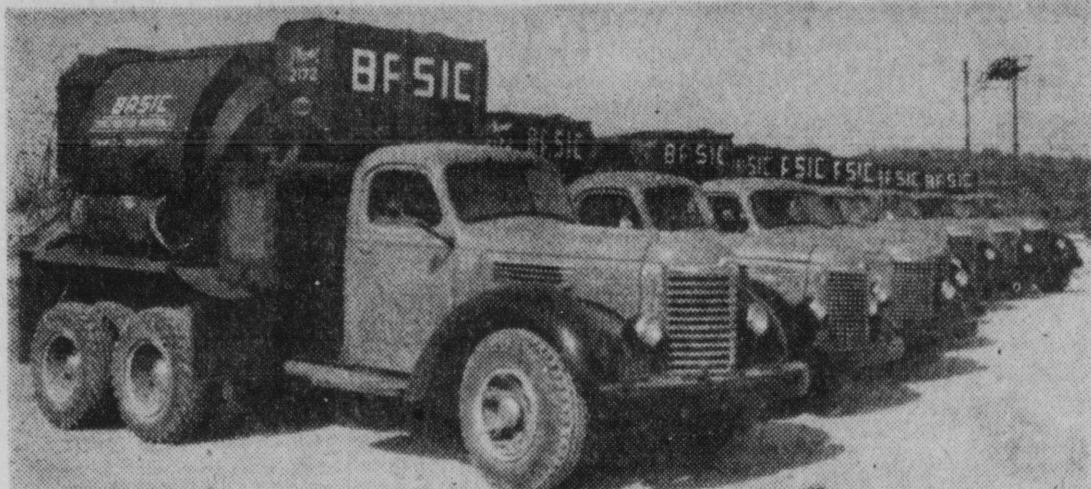

Bishop Oxnam said "self-appointed illiterates have organized agencies under high sounding names for the alleged purpose of saving our schools from subversion" and have "contributed to undermining the very bastion of the free way of life." He added: "No Communist could want more than to have the American lose faith in our school system." The bishop said it is the duty of each community to mobilize "the necessary resistance to these forces of the night."

Gas Tanks Filled With Plain Water

WEBSTER, Mass. (AP)—When frate motorists began turning up in droves, two local gas station owners found out they had been filling gas tanks with water.

After much confusion, a great deal of free towing and carburetor cleaning, the blame was placed on a tank truck shipment made by a Worcester distributor — 1,000 gallons of water to one dealer and 850 gallons to the other.

The explanation was that an

World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press
News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. McCarthy fights like Henry Armstrong, the perpetual motion man who won three world titles in the 1930s with this stock-in-trade: never step back, punch, punch, and get the fancy footwork.

Even the Wisconsin Republican's enemies must concede he is one of the most aggressive politicians of the 20th century. But he has reached a point where he may have to change his style or wind up flat on his political back.

It was his style that got him into trouble. His problem is: Can he change it?

He made his reputation as a communist hunter. His record as a lawmaker is not particularly distinguished. He was a comparative unknown, outside Wisconsin, for the first four years after his election to the Senate in 1946.

When he hit on the theme of Reds-in-government in 1950, he began to slug his way out of oblivion. He had cooled off after his first sensational charges he might have slipped back into obscurity.

Instead, he kept his name in the headlines by attack, attack, attack. McCarthy didn't back-pedal when he was going rough. He just belted the other guy. It was how he became king of the featherweights, lightweights and welterweights.

McCarthy became a national figure the same way. Trying to corner him didn't slow him up. He kept moving in, belting away, throwing charges from all directions.

As it turned out, he was a little too rough for his own good. The Senate, four years after he had become a sensational figure, decided it was time to see whether he needed a dressing down.

He himself predicts he will be censured by the Senate, returning today to consider charges that his conduct toward others, including senators, was contemptuous and unfitting a senator.

McCarthy refers to what lies in store for him as "lynching bee," which, all by itself, might be considered contemptuous of the Senate since it implies that body is a mob of vigilantes.

But it's typical McCarthy. Here he is, in the worst jam of his life, fighting at a majority of the Senate even though he knows the verdict that majority may in the end mean the ruin of his political life.

To be censured is, in a sense, to be discredited. It is the same as calling a foul on a fighter. It would mean his fellows thought he didn't meet the standards of what a senator should be.

Next to throwing him out altogether, a vote of censure is the worst verdict the Senate could order against him. Throwing him out doesn't seem in the cards.

McCarthy could still vote, if censured. He wouldn't lose his seat, at least before the 1958 elections when his second term ends.

Another man, censured, might be so humiliated he'd turn meek forever. That's hardly in McCarthy's nature. He's naturally too aggressive to take a setback as permanent.

A BANNER CALLING for the "liberation" of Nationalist-held Formosa is prominent in the parade of thousands of Red soldiers and civilians as they observe "National Day" in Peiping. Communist officials have repeatedly indicated that an all-out attack on Chiang Kai-shek's stronghold may be imminent.

In fact, he could hardly afford to go back into oblivion again unless he's willing to let his political career end without a further fight. He has no place to go but forward.

But how is he going forward? How is he going to stay in the headlines by the same tactics that got him into trouble now. The next time the Senate verdict, with the Democrats in control, might be more drastic.

But if his free-swinging style is cramped — if he has to think of the consequences for himself every time he wants to act or speak in the future — will he be the same McCarthy? It's something he has to think about.

It's possible he may not be able to change, that he's too much himself for that. But that he'll fight, somehow, to keep himself a national figure seems certain. If he loses that, he loses everything.

He's probably already lost some of his following, and much public interest. Reports from the political fronts in the last campaign said he wasn't much of an issue.

Boy, 14, Saves Twins In Blaze

CLEVELAND (AP)—A 14-year-old boy rescued six-year-old twin girls Saturday from a three-story apartment house where fire blocked a hallway and stairwell.

Clyde Felder, the boy, got out of his first-floor room in the building, then ran back through smoke and flames to save the little girls, Marilyn and Carolyn Carr, who were stumbling around in fright in a smoke-filled room of the third floor. He carried them to a fire escape and dropped them 10 feet from a landing to the arms of James Priest, 33, another resident of the apartment.

5 More Iranian Officers Executed

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—An Army firing squad at dawn today executed five more officers convicted of spying for Soviet Russia.

To date 20 officers of the army, police or air force and one civilian have been executed in the crackdown on the widespread Red spy ring. An estimated 650 officers and civilians have been arrested in the roundup.

Grandma 'Hooked' In Poker Game

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A poker-playing grandmother has filed a $100,000 damage suit against an accountant, charging she won a poker hand from him but came out second best in an argument that followed.

Mrs. Hesper McGee, 57, alleged that last Oct. 2, while she was participating in a legal game at the Normandie Club in Gardena, Linn Weinstock, 36, closed his fist around a stack of chips and struck her down.

The petition said the club, also named as a defendant, failed to protect its patrons.

delegation to the next Democratic Convention.

The elimination of Thomas E. Dewey as a political leader in New York cannot be ignored. Three times elected as Governor, twice a candidate for President, organizer of the nomination of Dwight Eisenhower at the 1952 Republican Convention, Dewey could not carry his chosen successor, Irving Lves, to victory.

The narrowness of the Harriman vote indicates that Ives could have won were there not a protest refusal to vote in the election by enough Republicans to make a difference. The defeat of Ives makes Jacob Javits, the Attorney General, the leader of his party in the State. Javits is closely connected with the Liberal Party and therefore he is likely to continue to be conservative Republicans.

In the New York situation, where men do unfortunately vote along religious and racial lines, in recent elections a tendency has appeared to substitute an Italian Catholic for an Irish Catholic in both parties. An analysis of election districts would indicate that the Irish Catholic Democrats have reassessed their strength by rejecting Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., for Attorney General. He lost in strictly Democratic districts to Jacob Javits, a Republican with Liberal Party leanings, who is a Jew. This unusual result was anticipated by nobody.

They plan to talk with American labor leaders and see how things are done in U. S. coal and steel industries.

Drivers Are Seen ... But Not Hood

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP)—The battery in Harold Davis' car failed, and friend Donald Parrish started pushing, walking along on the driver's side. Suddenly the motor caught, and the car jerked forward. Parrish leaped onto a fender, then crawled onto the hood as the car gained speed.

Davis' vision was impaired because Parrish was sitting in front of him and he sideswiped a car.

Davis was fined $10 for reckless driving and Parrish $9 for "sitting on the hood."

Saddle Horse Club Planned For 4-H

Final plans are now underway to start a 4-H Saddle Horse Club. Several brood mares have been made available and the committee is now ready to place these mares out in the county.

The committee in charge of this program includes: Dr. F. P. Dunlap, Emmitt Ebenhack, Mrs. J. E. Groom and Thelma Burtnor.

The committee will furnish a bred mare to the ones selected to be in the club. The members will care for the mare and its colt. The colt will become the property of the member and he will return the mare to the committee.

The members receiving the mare will organize as a 4-H Riding Horse Club. The committee will act as advisors to the club and instruct the members in the proper care of their riding horses.

Those interested in this program may contact county extension office. There is still time to make your application for this club.

Powder Bowl Game Is Won By Xi Delt

ATHENS (AP)—After seven years, Alpha Xi Delta ran up its first win over Pi Beta Phi yesterday, 7-0, in the annual Powder Bowl game at Ohio University.

In a game distinguished for lumps, bumps and black eyes, the two smooth-working coed gridiron groups drew $700 for the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund.

Fleet halfback Barbara Watson, weighing only 110 pounds including good will, ducked around right end and sped goalward 34 yards for the score.

Nancy Minto collected a pass from team captain Dietz Dengler for the extra point.

Diligence on both sides was notable in yesterday's game. For while the first clash in 1947 was more of a sedate gavotte, yesterday's play was described by observers as "very sincere."

Included in the Pi Beta Phi team lineup were Barbara Campbell, Circleville; Marilyn Gamwell, Glouster; Claudette Chappel, Athens; Myra Jane Blair, Chillicothe.

Also in the Alpha Xi Delta roster were Shirley Guisinger, Ashland; Carol Braun, Steubenville;

Perfect Football List Down To 32

NEW YORK (AP)—The list of the nation's unbeaten untied college football teams was down to 32 today after five dropped out of the coveted group over the weekend.

Five of the 32 are major schools and include the first four ranked teams UCLA, Ohio State, Oklahoma and Arkansas—plus Cincinnati. The shrinking group lost one member last Saturday when Miami of Florida bowed to Auburn.

Four of the select teams are from Ohio. Cincinnati has eight consecutive victories, while Ohio State, Miami and Ashland have seven wins each.

BRUSSELS BUSY PREPARING FOR 1958 WORLD'S FAIR

This model shows a group of buildings now under construction and which will house part of the 1958 World's Fair exhibits.

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
Central Press Correspondent

BRUSSELS, Belgium—Little Belgium, with only 8,500,000 people, is being mobilized once again, this time not for war but for a great peaceful undertaking.

Here in the Belgian capital will open in 1958 the first postwar world's fair. More than 25 million people are expected to visit the displays that will be on exhibition from April through October.

Indicative of the scope of the undertaking, the Belgian government initiated plans for the Brussels world's fair six years ago and estimates it will spend $200 million on it. Millions more will be spent by the 56 foreign nations and the numerous international organizations invited to participate.

A minimum of 125,000 visitors are expected daily, with as many as 250,000 on some peak days. The Brussels fair will be the first grand international exposition to be held since those in New York and San Francisco in 1939 and 1940 when war brought 20 years of peace to a thundering end.

The Belgian government says the Brussels fair will be comparable to the New York world's fair, the most ambitious of its kind ever held.

New permanent buildings will be erected, new roads will be built and old ones improved, huge parking areas created, and hotels constructed.

THE BRUSSELS AIRPORT will be made into the world's most modern. A helicopter service will be initiated between the center of Brussels and the fair grounds, which will be located four and a half miles away.

Approximately 450 acres, described by the Belgian government as "a magnificently planted area," will be the site of the fair. Three palaces are already in the area, ready for use, and a fourth palace will be erected.

The palaces will constitute the center of the Belgian section, to be completed by temporary pavilions representing principal industrial groups. A large area has been reserved for the Belgian Congo exhibit.

Foreign countries will be allocated 200,000 square meters space for building their halls along the main entrance gates. This space is surrounded by gardens and flower beds.

In addition to the 56 governments invited to participate, most of them, including the U.S., have indicated they will do so, the Belgians have also tendered invitations to the United Nations, the International Red Cross, the European Coal and Steel community, and other world groups.

In explaining the purpose of the fair, the Belgian government stated: "Its exhibits will permit the people of the world to see at first hand how far humanity has progressed in a generation and how much has been contributed to this progress by individual peoples."

"Every nation, as well as today's large international organizations, will be given an opportunity to display its accomplishments in the spheres of social and technological progress and to exhibit pertinent characteristics of its industry, science and art."

Baron Moens de Fernig has been named commissioner general of the fair, a position comparable to that held by Grover Whalen at the New York world's fair. Fernig, 54, is a Belgian businessman who served in the Belgian cabinets from 1947 to 1949 as minister for supply and imports and minister of foreign trade.

San Juan (AP)—Willie Mays, who led the National League in batting last season with a .345 average, is showing signs that he plans to do the same in the Puerto Rican Winter League, where he is playing with the Santurce club.

The New York Giants' center-fielder sports a .640 average after 14 games. He didn't get his first homer until yesterday off Brooklyn's Tom Lasorda, but he leads the league in triples, 3; doubles 6; runs 18; and total hits, 26.

Gopher Star Leads Scoring

CHICAGO (AP)—Minnesota's Bob McNamara cracked out a pair of touchdowns Saturday to vault into a tie with Earl Smith of Iowa for the lead in the Big Ten scoring.

Smith, undisputed leader for three successive weeks, scored once Saturday in Iowa's victory over Purdue, giving him 54 points.

Bobby Watkins of Ohio State remained in the running with a pair of touchdowns, giving him 51.

The figures include all games played by Big Ten teams.

County Six-Man Football Program Earns Profit Of $810.47

5 Teams Play Only 4 Games At Fairgrounds

Experiment Termed Very Big Success After First Effort

Pickaway County's six-man football experiment of playing all the games at the Fairgrounds has paid off to the tune of an $810.47 profit for the 1954 season.

Howard Hosler, superintendent of Walnut Township School and manager of the six-man football program, revealed the good news in a financial report late last week.

The four games which were played resulted in receipts of $913.85. Expenses took up $256.82. However, refreshments brought in an additional profit of $153.44.

The money is distributed evenly to the five participating schools: Walnut, Ashville, Jackson, Deer Creek and Pickaway. This arrangement was decided upon before the season got under way.

HOSLER DONATED his $50 salary for the manager job to the schools. However, the superintendents voted to return the money to him adding that his efforts were worth even more.

George McDowell, county superintendent of schools, voiced his pleasure at the financial and attendance success of the six man program. He added that plans are already being considered for the 1955 season.

Miss Helen Irwin, a commercial teacher at Walnut Township School, prepared the following financial report:

ROCKY, perhaps the world's only parachuting bear, is shown in San Francisco with S/Sgt. Gene Castle, on her way to Chicago's Lincoln Park zoo. Rocky was purchased for $120 from the Kanamoto zoo in Japan when she weighed only four pounds. At two months old she made her first parachute jump—and didn't like it. Since, she has bitten soldiers, ripped up shrubbery, ruined furniture and stolen food. What a service record! (International)

GIs Help Destroy Lonesome Elephant

AUGSBURG, Germany (AP)—Bosco, a dangerously love-sick circus elephant, was shot down last week-end by U. S. soldiers manning 50 caliber machineguns mounted on two jeeps.

The troops had been called on to guard the four-ton beast after he went berserk Thursday, breaking loose and injuring his trainer.

Fearful the 19-year-old bull elephant might kill somebody, the owner asked the soldiers to destroy him. Circus men blamed Bosco's bad temper on his lack of a girl friend.

Now! CLINIC-TESTED SURIN RELIEVES RHEUMATIC PAIN* IN MINUTES OR PAY NOTHING!

SURIN is an original contribution in the field of relieving pain of arthritis and rheumatism. Don't take our word for it! But you can take the word of doctors in a great clinic where SURIN was tested for months on long-standing rheumatic cases.

For ethical reasons we cannot print the clinic's name but you are urged to write for this information. Here's what these doctors found! SURIN's unique ingredient, acetyl beta methyl choline, penetrates deeply, rapidly to step up the power of its analgesic drug at the point of pain—just where you apply it and need it most—in three out of four cases! Acetyl beta methyl choline also increases the period of effective pain relief at the point of pain; and with relief of pain, patients often experience greater freedom of joint movement. That's what the doctors reported and it was of significant importance to be published in the scientific press.

Isn't SURIN worth your trial, if you are suffering the pain and misery of rheumatism. And SURIN works without stomach upsets which can be caused by internal dosing because you simply spread it on at the point of pain—remember, it works so fast!

A COMPLETELY NEW KIND OF CREAM OINTMENT
Don't expect SURIN to look or act like other "rub-on—rub-in" salves or liniments. It is not harsh or blistering. SURIN gives the skin a pleasant, mild, cooling sensation to overcome the local heat caused by congestion. SURIN is pure white—pleasant to use—goes on smoothly, washes off quickly and is harmless to clothing!

SURIN IS SWIFT BECAUSE IT'S DIRECT!
SURIN acts more directly and quickly than many internal pain relievers. It starts to act as soon as you apply it—quick—at the point of pain! You simply smooth it on where you ache and get relief in minutes!

COMFORTING RELIEF OR MONEY BACK! Get a jar of SURIN today and use as directed. Get blessed relief in minutes or druggist must refund purchase price—no questions asked!

FREE SAMPLE!—Try Surin for yourself at our expense. Get a free trial package today at your druggist. If he hasn't got it, send postcard for free sample to McKesson & Robbins, Inc., P.O. Box 548, Bridgeport, Conn.

Ike Believes Lasting Peace Chance Bright

President Says U.S. Again Resolves 'There Will Be No More War'

BOSTON (AP) — President Eisenhower declared today "the specter of war looms less threateningly" than in a long time "despite the instance of provocation" stemming from the shooting down of an American plane by Russian-built fighter craft.

A U. S. Air Force photo mapping plane was shot down by two Russian built MIG-type fighter planes Saturday, according to an Air Force announcement.

Departing from his text in addressing the 27th convention of the National Council of Catholic Women, the President said, after declaring the prospects for an enduring and lasting peace are the brightest in years.

"Despite such instances of provocation as that which took place yesterday off the coast of Japan, the specter of war looms less threateningly over all mankind."

The President said that the quest for an "enduring and lasting" peace "must be the overriding goal of our foreign policy." He said:

"IT IS NOT paradoxical in our peaceful efforts that we maintain powerful military forces. For in a world partly dominated by men who respect only guns, planes and tanks, these weapons are essential to our survival."

The President noted he was speaking on the 12th anniversary of the landing of the first American troops in North Africa during World War II.

"As we look back on this day, and on the most terrible war in human history, we again resolve that there must never be another war," Eisenhower declared.

Police Study Pike County Twin Slaying

WAVERLY (AP) — Pike County Sheriff Jess H. Foster today sought to establish the motive for a double slaying as he prepared to file murder charges against a 62-year-old man.

The victims were James A. Lett, 54, who lives near Beaver in Pike County, and Mrs. Miltha C. Jones, 52, who was visiting him at the time. The man arrested by the sheriff lives in the vicinity.

The slaying occurred Saturday night. Lett was felled by a single blast from a single-barreled shotgun fired through a window of his home. Mrs. Jones was clubbed to death with another shotgun.

The man under arrest told the sheriff he remembered nothing that happened during the time the two were killed. He and three companions had stopped at the Lett home on their way home from Waverly.

One of the arrested man's companions, George Davis, entered the Lett home and started talking to Lett, the sheriff said. Then a shotgun was fired through a window, fatally wounding Lett. Some of the pellets struck Davis.

Davis ran into the kitchen where Mrs. Jones was. A second blast, fired through a rear door, struck Davis in the arm and Mrs. Jones in the back, the sheriff said.

The sheriff found a broken double-barreled shotgun near Mrs. Jones' body. The Pike County coroner, Dr. Mack E. Moore, said her death was caused by blows on the head from the shotgun and not by the shot. Davis' wounds were minor, and he was released after being treated by the coroner.

Red Jets Down Another U. S. Plane Over Northern Japan

TOKYO (AP) — U. S. airmen charged today that two Russian jet fighters pounced without warning on a U. S. plane on a photo mission over northern Japan yesterday and shot it down in flames.

Ten of the big four-engine RB-29's 11 crewmen parachuted to safety, moments before their plane crashed in northern Hokkaido, a few miles from the Russian-held Kurile Islands. The 11th crewman drowned after bail out.

In Washington, the State Department said it was protesting the incident to Moscow.

In Tokyo, Gen. John E. Hull, U. S. Far East commander, said the direction of the crippled plane's fall "completely negates" any possible Soviet claim that the plane was over Russian territory. He accused the Russians of a "piratical" attack.

Capt. Anthony F. Feith, the RB-29 captain, said his plane was "never closer than 15 miles" to Russian territory.

Feith, 35, of Chester, Pa., said: "I was approximately nine miles off Hokkaido and was never closer than 15 miles to the area the Russians consider their own. When fired upon we were even further away. We were headed toward land."

The attack came, he said, just as his plane had finished the first of three scheduled photo runs over northern Hokkaido, Japan's northernmost island. His plane, he said, was at about 17,000 feet and just off the Hokkaido coast, southwest of the easternmost tip of the Nemuro Isthmus. This would put the plane well to the south and west on the Japanese side of the narrow strait of water that separates Hokkaido from the Soviet-held islands.

Asked if the Russian planes at any time intruded inside the three-mile limit marking Japanese waters, Feith said:

"Yes, I would say they were on their last pass."

Feith said when the MIGs were first spotted rising from about 10,000 feet he told his crew, "I don't think they would attack."

But moments later A. Z. C. Walter, New York City, shouted: "They're firing."

The MIGs made two passes each,

blasting at the big RB-29 with both cannon and machineguns.

Feith said his plane lurched. Flames, touched off by gasoline spewing from a wing tank, enveloped part of the craft.

Moments later Feith ordered the crew to bail out.

"Everyone cleared the ship," he said.

Although the RB-29 was armed, Feith said he could see no advantage in returning the Russian fire. His copilot, 1st Lt. David N. Oliver, Corvallis, Ore., said:

"I don't like getting shot at. I was mad. But like the captain said, there was nothing to be gained by shooting at them."

The bailout occurred over a 10-mile strip as the burning plane floundered inland. It crashed about 35 miles from the attack area, scene of several clashes between U. S. and Soviet planes in past months.

All but one of the men were picked up. The 11th, the second man out of the plane, was found drowned, tangled in his chute. His name was withheld.

Harry Grove Dies Early On Saturday

Harry E. Grove, deput clerk of Probate Court in Pickaway County, died early Saturday at University Hospital in Columbus.

He had been with Probate Court since Feb. 9, 1933, when he was appointed by Judge C. C. Young. Probate Judge George Young terms Grove as "indispensable and almost impossible to replace."

Grove, a resident of Ashville, became ill only a few weeks ago. His condition became worse as he remained at the Columbus hospital.

The court house will be closed Tuesday afternoon to honor Grove's burial which will take place in the afternoon at Harrison Township Cemetery.

GROVE, who was 55, was born in Walnut Township on Aug. 24, 1899. He was a graduate of Ashville High School.

He held various jobs before moving into the Probate Court job. He worked for his father in the car and farm implement business, for the Pickaway County News and sold real estate in Akron for a short period of time.

He also taught at Ashville for one year.

Grove was very much interested in education. He was president of the Ashville School Board and the Ashville-Harrison School Board. One of his hobbies was the study of nuclear physics and was considered well versed in that field. He was often described as being highly intelligent.

He was a member of the Ashville Methodist Church, the Masons and Ashville Knights of Pythias. He taught the Men's Sunday School class at the church.

HIS WIFE, Helen M. Grove, heads the list of survivors. A son, William, is in the Army but has returned home. Mrs. Carl Kreiger, of Ashville, is a daughter.

Grove's parents, George and Virginia Eccard Grove, also survive. A brother, Allen, lives in Columbus. There is one grandchild.

Grove's body will be taken from the Bastian Funeral Home, in Ashville, to the church at 11 a. m. Tuesday. Friends may view the body at any time.

Funeral services will be conducted at the church with the Rev. Emerson Abts officiating.

Young Balloon

Pilot Given

Federal Nod

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Ballonist Garrett Cashman, nursing "skinned hands" and a "few aching parts," has official sanction to continue experimental soaring with his plywood seat and weather balloons.

But the intrepid, 27-year-old Cashman says he has decided to ground his homemade contraption for the winter.

Saturday he made a six-hour flight that carried him about 50 miles over the Adirondack wilderness. During most of the flight he was out of sight above the clouds.

Cashman, a part-time hypnotist and mail order dancing teacher, made the flight to show the Civil Aeronautics Administration he could control his craft, "Uplift I."

The gear is a couple of pieces of plywood suspended from 80 hydrogen-filled balloons, each about four feet in diameter.

He said he had been wafted along at about 5,000 feet during most of the trip, but had shot up to 10,000 just before deciding to come down.

He descended by popping some of the balloons with a slingshot. His first flight, an unannounced 21-mile hop last September, cost him a $50 fine for flying without a license. Since then he has tried twice to make controlled flights for CAA approval but has been foiled each time by strong winds.

Shotguns Oust

Cincy Starlings

CINCINNATI (AP)—Forty men armed with shotguns popped off at starlings in downtown Cincinnati last night and very few birds were sighted thereafter.

Police Lt. Herbert Walke, who directed the firing, said he scanned many former roosting places afterward, and could see "very few" birds.

The shooting is Cincinnati's method of ridding itself of a pest of many years standing. Smoke, noise chemicals and fake owls have failed to oust the critters.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—More than 240 Moslems were injured last night when fire, followed by panic, broke up a torchlight procession honoring the birthday of the prophet Mohammed.

CD Alert Here Will Not Stop Cars On Road

Circleville Schools Holding Trial Run Probably Monday

No traffic will be halted here but city schools will hold a drill when the proposed six-state Civil Defense alert comes off before Wednesday.

Bernard Tait, Pickaway County CD director, revealed that the alert will be signalled by sirens on the cars from the police and sheriff's department. This will be a three-minute blast.

Chief Air Raid Warden Roger McLaughlin said that all pedestrians will be cleared from the streets.

The all clear will be three one-minute siren blasts.

GEORGE HARTMAN, superintendent of Circleville schools, revealed that schools will hold a trial run, probably on Monday. Places throughout the buildings have already been designated as bomb shelter areas, he added.

State Patrolman Gene Miller said that his orders are only to relay the alert message. He added that Patrol auxiliaries who participate will fill out cards noting when they received the relay.

There will be no advanced warning of the alert. Tait said he felt the alert might even come at night.

Life Savings 'Banked' On Window Ledge

CLEVELAND (AP)—White-haired James Cranney, 84, decided yesterday it was high time he put his life savings into a safe place.

So he stuffed $1,165 into his wallet, went to a church and asked the pastor to put the money in a safe deposit box for him. But the pastor told him to take it to a bank.

Being unfamiliar with banks, Cranney did not know they were closed on the Sabbath. He went to a bus stop in front of a store to wait for a ride downtown.

He tells what happened:

"Well, I took out my pipe. And so I could light it, I put me wallet on the window ledge. I lit me pipe, then—swoosh—along comes me bus. I put out me pipe. I grab me cane and I get aboard the bus."

"I sit down, and I look out the window. Then all of a sudden it dawns on me—me wallet!"

By the time he could get off that bus and get another one back downtown, his wallet was gone.

Governor Dies

DURHAM, N. C. (AP)—Gov. William B. Umstead, 59, who had been ill since he took office less than two years ago, died in Watts Hospital here yesterday. He suffered heart trouble. He will be succeeded by Luther H. Hodges, 56, elected lieutenant governor in 1952.

Fayette Judge Dies

WASHINGTON, C. H. (AP)—Funeral services will be held here Wednesday for Probate Judge Rell G. Allen, 84, of Fayette County, who died Sunday in a Columbus hospital.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Dr. Elmer Hess, president-elect of the American Medical Assn., said today any doctor "who lacks faith in the Supreme Being" has no right to practice medicine.

"A physician who walks into a sick room is not alone," said the Erie, Pa., doctor, who is a specialist in urology. "He can only minister to the ailing person with the material tools of scientific medicine. His faith in a higher power does the rest."

"Show me the doctor who denies the existence of the Supreme Being and I will say that he has no right to practice the healing art."

Hess made the statements in a prepared digest of extemporaneous remarks he planned for the opening of the 48th annual meeting of the Southern Medical Assn. The SMA, with a total membership of 10,000 doctors, ranks second only to the AMA as the largest general medical organization in the U. S.

"Our medical schools are doing a magnificent job of teaching the fundamentals of scientific medicine," declared Hess. "However, I'm afraid that the concentration on basic science is so great the teaching of spiritual values is almost neglected."

At another point he said: "Any man who enters the medical profession with financial gain as his sole objective is a discredit to his colleagues. The market place is where you go to make money, not the sick room. Doctors take care of sick folks—period."

The AMA official declared that organization has launched a long-range program designed to solve the medical care problems of the indigent and the chronically ill.

"Special attention must be given," he said, "to the problems of those who are unable to pay for their own medical care, or buy insurance to protect themselves against such costs. We are urging state and county medical societies to make this a major project."

U.S. Envoy, Russian Boss Dine, Trade Vodka Toasts

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov and U. S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen dined at the same table last night and talked seriously for half an hour afterwards. The occasion was a big Kremlin banquet celebrating the 37th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

The traditional Red Square military parade lasted only 20 minutes this year, and an air show was canceled because of an overcast sky. A speech by Defense Minister Marshal Nikolai Bulganin avoided the usual blasts at the United States.

The conversation between Bohlen and Malenkov, amid the hubbub of the party for 2,000 ranking Soviets and foreign diplomats, was the first time the two had gotten together since Stalin's death.

Questioned later, the American envoy gave no hint what they talked about. He said only: "No business was transacted."

An hour-long talk that Malenkov and Communist Party Secretary

Nikita Khrushchev had with Yugo-slav Ambassador Dobrovic Vodic

a little later stirred almost as much curiosity as the Bohlen-Malenkov talk.

EARLIER anniversary speeches by Soviet leaders had hinted at a revival of friendship with Yugoslavia, the only Communist country outside the Soviet bloc.

The gala dinner party, in the Kremlin's ornate St. George Hall, wound up a two-day celebration of Russia's biggest holiday.

Bohlen sat with 27 other guests at the main table. Included were the members of the Soviet Presidium and the British, French, Indian, Burmese, Indonesian, Polish and Communist Chinese ambassadors and their wives.

Five hundred others ate from buffet tables around the hall, and the feast was spread in a series of other rooms.

The honored guests raised their vodka glasses in 15 formal toasts while an intrigued, eavesdropping throng hovered about the main table.

Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, smiling host at the affair, proposed that "both Soviet and American diplomats should strive for better understanding between our two countries."

Bohlen complimented Molotov as the "most experienced diplomat in this room" and drank to his "next visit to Washington." The American envoy then leaned back in his chair and pointed out to reporters that this actually was not an in-itation.

For the Democrats rolled up only about 371,000 more votes than the Republicans outside the South.

Incomplete unofficial returns show that:

Nationally, the Democrats harvested 21,894,811 votes, the Republicans 20,999,328 for a total of 41,- 949,139 and a Democratic edge of 1,750,483.

Outside the south, the Democrats drew 19,823,519 votes, the Republicans 19,451,674, a difference of 370,845 in a total of 39,376,193.

Ballots still uncounted wouldn't change the picture much in northern, midwestern and western states where the tally is fairly complete.

In the South, the official count undoubtedly will pile up an even heavier voting margin for the Democrats. Many southern areas, where Republican candidates run largely for exercise or not at all, don't bother about completing an unofficial tally in advance of the official count.

up before his colleagues on censure charges. In the nation's history only three senators have been censured.

McCarthy has said he will not defend himself against the charges but will speak at length to inform the public on the issues.

The Watkins committee was composed of three Republicans and three Democratic senators.

McCarthy yesterday repeated his charges that three of the six were prejudiced against him. He called the committee's unanimous report "silly."

McCarthy said the vote will go against him on purely political grounds, not on the basis of anything in the report.

HE ALSO SAID he thought the Republicans might well have kept control of Congress if their campaign speakers had hit hard on the Communists - in - government issue from the first.

"I was rather surprised," he said, "to find our good President avoiding it to a great extent."

But he said he thought Vice President Nixon "did a good job" of stressing the Reds-in-government issue in the campaign.

A vote of censure would have no legal effect, beyond an official rebuke, on the 44-year-old McCarthy.

Sen. Monroney (D-Okla.) said such a vote would, however, "have a bearing on the acceptance of what he (McCarthy) says as a senator when it reaches the American public."

Monroney agreed with McCarthy's forecast that a vote to censure will be forthcoming.

Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill.) reaffirmed last night his intention of voting against the censure move. But he refused to go along with McCarthy's "lynching bee" comment or the Wisconsin senator's charge that the Watkins committee was "stacked" against him.

Dirksen, long a McCarthy admirer, said he couldn't imagine such things happening in a body with "the integrity and probity" of the Senate.

Blaze In Chile Doused By Wine

TALCAHUANO, Chile (AP)—Water was lacking, but plenty of Chilean wine was on hand when fire broke out the other night in a restaurant-dance hall.

So patrons cracked open three casks and quenched the flames with about 500 gallons of the stuff. Then they were rewarded with other wine on the house.

U.S. Politicians Again Talking Like Politicians

Some Sour Notes Heard Concerning Future Ike-Dem Cooperation

WASHINGTON (AP)—The postelection theme of harmony between President Eisenhower and the Democratic 84th Congress echoed some dissonant notes today in the wake of an exchange between party chairmen and new statements by Democratic leaders.

Democratic National Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell said yesterday that Vice President Nixon should "retract and apologize for his campaign excesses."

If Nixon continues, Mitchell added, "I hope that the President will take the opportunity to disassociate himself from such character assassination by public disavowal."

Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall replied of Mitchell's remarks: "This is in the worst possible taste and in the worst possible public interest" coming at a time when, Hall said, responsible leaders in Congress are pledging cooperation.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas who will be majority floor leader when the Democrats organize the new Senate in January, publicly criticized some of President Eisenhower's campaign remarks at a news conference Saturday.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas who will be majority floor leader when the Democrats organize the new Senate in January, publicly criticized some of President Eisenhower's campaign remarks at a news conference Saturday.

HE ALSO SET out certain conditions for cooperation of Democratic congressional leaders during the next two years.

If the Republican administration wants Democrats to cooperate then it must consult with them in advance of making final decisions, he said.

It was learned that Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California later proposed periodic conferences between Eisenhower and both Democratic and Republican leaders of Congress.

"The President now has had his little fling in the political arena," Johnson said, referring to Eisenhower's campaign statement that election of a Democratic Congress might bring on "a cold war of partisan politics."

At his postelection news conference, Eisenhower said that statement was too strong for what he had in mind.

Johnson said talk about a "cold war" because of the political division is ridiculous and added:

"If there is a cold war, the Democrats are not going to provoke it."

He declared also that "many Democrats deeply resent the charges and unjust accusations made in the last campaign."

Sam Rayburn of Texas, who will be the new speaker of the House, was a case in point. He made it plain he did not like Republican campaign speechmakers' labeling the entire Democratic party as pinks and leftwingers.

The New York Times, long a staunch backer of Eisenhower, yesterday reported that there were some Republicans who thought tactics used by Nixon were ill-advised.

Coroner Admits Own Blood May Have 'Drowned' Victim

CLEVELAND (AP)—Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard's defense attorney managed a suggestion today that the osteopath's wife may have strangled or "drowned" in her own blood, or even died of shock.

Dr. Lester Adelson, chief deputy Cuyahoga County coroner, conceded that under certain circumstances such a form of death might occur to a person.

Dr. Adelson, first state witness in the first degree murder trial of 30-year-old Dr. Sheppard, had testified the autopsy on the body of the slain Marilyn revealed that she died of a splintered skull.

Defense Attorney William J. Corrigan, in the third day of cross examining Dr. Adelson, got him to concede that Mrs. Sheppard's windpipe was clogged with blood and that there was blood in her lungs.

The lawyer then asked if such blood in the windpipe and lungs might not cause death by cutting off oxygen to the victim.

"IT MIGHT," Dr. Adelson replied. "Did it?" Corrigan persisted. "I can't say that," Dr. Adelson told him.

"You make no mention of this in the autopsy report," Corrigan said.

"No, may I explain why?" the deputy coroner said.

"No, you can explain to the prosecutor if you want to," Corrigan told him.

Corrigan also accused the small, mustached Adelson of using an "unscientific method" in his inspection of the murdered woman.

He took up the question of shock and its effect on the human body, implying it was a possible cause of Marilyn Sheppard's death.

"You didn't put the theory of shock down in your report," Corrigan told the witness.

"An autopsy is no place for theorizing," said Dr. Adelson.

"And this woman may have been shocked into unconsciousness by any one of these blows?" Corrigan went on.

"Any one sufficiently severe," Dr. Adelson agreed.

Corrigan then discussed with him various types of shock from simple fainting to the more severe kinds that affect the human body.

"SHOCK and a sudden lowering of the blood pressure might cause death," Corrigan insisted.

"It might," Dr. Adelson finally agreed.

"And that's not mentioned in the autopsy," Corrigan declared.

"There's no reason to mention it—that's right, it's not mentioned in the autopsy," Dr. Adelson said.

Corrigan asked Dr. Adelson if a spinal tap had been performed on Mrs. Sheppard to determine the amount of blood found in her brain. The witness said it had not.

Solons To Probe Swindle Of GIs

CINCINNATI (AP)—Rep. Hess (R-Ohio) said last night a House Armed Service subcommittee will start an investigation tomorrow of charges that GIs in Europe are being swindled at the rate of $8 million a year.

He said the investigation was prompted by a magazine article entitled "How to Steal $8 million a Year" and by information secured by a committee investigator in Spain. Reports claim racketeers gain the money through food, whiskey and insurance deals.

Wins Upper Room World Fellowship Award

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Dr. John A. Mackay, right, former missionary, now president of Princeton Theological Seminary and the Presbyterian World Alliance and chairman of the International Missionary Council, is shown receiving the citation for outstanding leadership in the field of world Christian Fellowship awarded annually by the Upper Room, international and interdenominational daily devotional guide. Dr. J. Manning Potts, of Nashville, Tennessee, editor of The Upper Room, presented the citation at the National Press Club here before more than two hundred churchmen and leaders in the field of World Christian Fellowship. In accepting the award, Dr. Mackay called The Upper Room, with its 27 editions and 22 languages and in Braille, "the most truly ecumenical publication issued today." This daily devotional guide is part of the ministry of more than 65,000 churches in the United States. It is also part of the ministry of hundreds of chaplains serving with the armed forces. New editions established this year include Finnish, Chinese and Russian. In all of the editions readers use the same Bible reading, the same meditations and the same prayers each day.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Dr. John A. Mackay, right, former missionary, now president of Princeton Theological Seminary and the Presbyterian World Alliance and chairman of the International Missionary Council, is shown receiving the citation for outstanding leadership in the field of world Christian Fellowship awarded annually by the Upper Room, international and interdenominational daily devotional guide. Dr. J. Manning Potts, of Nashville, Tennessee, editor of The Upper Room, presented the citation at the National Press Club here before more than two hundred churchmen and leaders in the field of World Christian Fellowship. In accepting the award, Dr. Mackay called The Upper Room, with its 27 editions and 22 languages and in Braille, "the most truly ecumenical publication issued today." This daily devotional guide is part of the ministry of more than 65,000 churches in the United States. It is also part of the ministry of hundreds of chaplains serving with the armed forces. New editions established this year include Finnish, Chinese and Russian. In all of the editions readers use the same Bible reading, the same meditations and the same prayers each day.

ers of our land rejoice that the possibility of peace is more promising than at any time in recent years.

"All of us are profoundly thankful that the terrible specter of war looms less threateningly over all mankind."

The President said the struggle for a lasting world peace must be waged through the United Nations and in every other possible way.

In appealing for a better international understanding, Eisenhower said that "above all we need the religious quality of compassion—the ability to feel the emotions of others as though they were our own." He added:

"If mothers in every land could teach their children to understand the homes and hopes of children in every other land—in America, in Europe, in the Near East, in Asia—the cause of peace in the world would indeed be nobly served."

Williamsport Boy Contracts Polio

Phillip Whitesed, seven-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Whitesed, of Williamsport, is in Children's Hospital in Columbus with polio.

Dr. A. D. Blackburn's office, which is the county health office here, disclosed that this is at least the third case reported in Pickaway County this year.

Phillip, according to Dr. H. H. Swope who attended him, has polio in the very early stages. It cannot be determined at this time how much the boy will be affected.

Dr. Swope said there probably would be some paralysis. But whether this would last long or not was too early to tell, the doctor added.

He Wipes Hands Of Whole Matter

SUFFOLK, Va. (AP)—Tilton Henry Hobbs told Judge W. W. Jones that he tore up State Trooper P. B. Marlowe's accident investigation book "to wipe my hands."

The ripping occurred when Marlowe, who had arrested Hobbs earlier, left his car for a few minutes. Judge Jones fined Hobbs $50 for using as a towel the record book, which contained reports for two months.

Mother Elizabeth of Britain and her party were due here today from Washington for a five-hour visit.

After a luncheon given by Gov. and Mrs. Theodore McKelvin, the Queen Mother will review a dress parade in her honor by the 3,600-man brigade of midshipmen at the U. S. Naval Academy.

Instead, consideration has veered lately toward a dispersal of the headquarters of the several armed forces to separate points outside the capital area. Initial thinking was toward use of established military centers, such as Ft. Belvoir, Va., about 15 miles south of the District of Columbia; Ft. Meade, Md., about 20 miles east; and Norfolk, Va., 150 miles south.

But a re-valuation of the potentialities of the hydrogen bomb, made after the giant test explosion at the Marshall Islands proving ground last spring, apparently has brought new ideas about the blast destruction. Estimates of the zone of major damage from H-bomb blast effect alone run as much as 150 miles from center.

While the underground installation at Ft. Ritchie, about 70 miles northwest of Washington in Frederick County, Md., presumably would escape the blast of a bomb exploded over the capital, it could be vulnerable to one dropped with the purpose of "cratering out" the subterranean installation.

Piketon Woman Sent To Prison

WAVERLY (AP)—Mrs. Kathryn Long, 40-year-old Piketon housewife, was sentenced to a one-to-two year term in Marysville Reformatory Saturday in the September shotgun slaying of her husband, Harold, 42.

Mrs. Long was sentenced by Common Pleas Judge Earl D. Parker after entering a plea of guilty to a charge of manslaughter.

The Sept. 5 shooting was in the Long's trailer home near Piketon. Long was a worker at the new atomic energy plant here.

Billy Graham Now 36 Years Old

DALLAS (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham marked his 36th birthday yesterday by preaching at Dallas' First Baptist Church.

He preached against "covenantal sin—the root of all sins."

Before his sermon, he received a Bible for a birthday present from pastor W. A. Criswell on behalf of the congregation.

MRS. EMMA J. WARDELL

Emma J. Wardell died Monday at 4 a. m. in a Columbus rest home following a lengthy illness.

Mrs. Wardell, whose husband John died in 1933, was 86 years old. She was born in Circleville on June 7, 1868 the daughter of Conrad and Barbara Clouse Barthelmas.

She was the last of her family. Her daughter, Mrs. Sanford Jennings, of Columbus, and several nieces and nephews are the only survivors. Mrs. Wardell was a member of the Circleville Trinity Lutheran Church.

Funeral services, led by the Rev. Carl Zeheer, will be held Wednesday at 2 p. m. at the Mader Chapel. Burial will follow in Forest Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home on Tuesday from 3 p. m. to 9 p. m.

MRS. MAUD JOHN

Maud L. John, 84, of Amanda, died at 7:30 p. m. Saturday in Lancaster-Fairfield Hospital, following an extended illness.

Surviving her are a son, Stanton D. of Amanda; a sister, Mrs. Cathleen Teahan of Florida, and two grandsons.

Funeral services will be held at 12:30 p. m. Tuesday in the Van Cleave Funeral Home of Amanda, with the Rev. Arthur Holt officiating.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

WILL FUNK

Will Funk, 85, of New Holland, succumbed to a long illness Sunday. He had been in failing health for the past few years and in a serious condition for the past three weeks prior to his death Sunday at 11 p. m.

He was born in New Holland on April 18, 1869 the son of James and Sarah Crispin Funk. His wife, the former Rene Timmons, to whom he had been married for 57 years, heads the list of survivors.

Mr. Funk, a retired blacksmith, is also survived by a daughter, Mrs. Marie Dennis, of New Holland; and two sisters, Mrs. John Lee, of New Holland and Mrs. Minnie Lump, of Circleville.

There are five grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

The Rev. Arthur George will officiate at the funeral services to be held Wednesday at 2 p. m. in the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home in New Holland. Burial will follow in the New Holland Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 6 p. m. on Tuesday.

WALTER C. SOUTHWARD

A Circleville resident, who celebrated his 63rd birthday on Sept. 15, died Sunday afternoon at White Cross Hospital in Columbus.

Walter C. Southward, of 487 E. Franklin St., had been employed by a Columbus furnace company. Survivors include the following:

His father, Dr. G. W. Southward, 91, who lives in San Diego, Calif.; his wife, the former Myrtle Spencer; and 11 children, who are:

Daughters—Mrs. Grace Cottrell, Mrs. Rita Mae Dawson, Mrs. Florence Melvin and Mrs. Mary Frances Buecher, all of Washington, C. H.; Mrs. Patricia Ann Hauser and Mrs. Ellen Kelly, of Clarksville; and Mrs. Ruby Brent, of Cleveland.

Sons—Floyd and Jack, of Washington, C. H.; Cecil, of Chillicothe; and Bob, of Columbus; three half-brothers, Guy, John and Harvey; a sister, Edith, of San Francisco, Calif.; a brother, Ralph, of New York City, N. Y.; and a half-sister, Margerite Robbins, of Columbus.

Mr. Southward's mother, Mrs. Sarah Williamson Southward, preceded him in death.

Services will be held Wednesday at 2 p. m. at the Bastian Funeral Home in Ashville. The Rev. J. D. Hopper will officiate.

Burial will be in Hiller-Ludwig Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home after 7:30 p. m. on Monday.

WALTER PHERSON

Walter E. Pherson, 77, died at 9 a. m. Sunday in his residence at Pherson.

Surviving him are his wife, Jessie Pherson; a son, Owen of Cline Rd., Columbus; a daughter, Mrs. Ruth Smith of Pickaway County; a brother, Albert, also of Pickaway County, and three sisters, Mrs. Grace Downs of near Williamsport; Mrs. Ella Southward of Circleville and Mrs. Rilla Baker.

THIS IS the windup of a gangland style "ride" which backfired in Brooklyn, N.Y. The intended victim, Anthony Governati, still alive but dazed from a head blow, sits against the fence. Body of one of the alleged kidnapers, Dominick Sorresi, is stretched across auto seat. Driver Andrea Bommarito stands next to policeman. A third foe of Governati's, Rosario Marceca, was shot in the chest. It happened like this: Sorresi, angry because Governati outbid him for a farm in Sicily, got together with Bommarito and Marceca, and the three offered Governati a ride. The ride wound up with Governati's being struck over the head with a pipe. But when Marceca tried to shoot Governati, the intended victim flailed at the gun, and the bullet went through Sorresi's forehead. Marceca tried again, and this time the gun was twisted so that he shot himself in the chest. By then the police, called by a nearby resident, arrived on the scene. (International Soundphoto)

Hal Boyle Says:

Parenthood Profits High

NEW YORK (AP)—Fatherhood to a successful race horse often beats an old age pension.

Take Native Dancer, for example. The big gray stallion, fourth biggest money winner in American turf history, raked up $785,240 in 22 starts and lost only one race, the Kentucky Derby, by a nose.

Now retired, he may earn even more money through planned parenthood in his leisure years than he did during his brief, fabulous track career.

"It's quite possible, if he lives long enough," said his owner, Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt. The Dancer, whose stud fee is $5,000 already has a full calendar for his first year as a sire. He has been booked for 40 engagements.

Whether he continues to earn $200,000 a year as a career father depends on whether he transmits to his offspring his own dazzling speed, heart and strength.

Only time can determine that. But the Dancer's own tremendous record has given him a head start in his new vocation. In developing thoroughbreds, owners generally follow the maxim, "you breed the best to the best and hope for the best."

Native Dancer's $5,000 stud fee is high, but there have been higher. There are perhaps 20 American stallions that get a $2,000 to $3,000 stud fee. In some cases the fee is paid only if the breeding results in a live foal.

The influence of a stallion's age on the quality of his offspring is highly debatable.

Native Dancer's famous grandfather, Discovery, was put to stud at the age of six. He will be 24 next spring, and is still active, although the number of his engagements has been cut gradually from 40 a year down to 12.

"But he's got more good horses the last five years than he did the first five years," remarked Vanderbilt.

Great track performers don't always go on to become the greatest sires. The fabulous Man O'War, still regarded by many as the racehorse of the century, led American sires only one year. In 1926 his offspring won 49 races and $408,137.

The most successful living sire, Bull Lea, not yet old enough to vote, never set any big money records in his saddle - wearing prime.

He was put out to stud in 1940 at the age of six. Since 1947 he has led the sire list every year except 1950 and 1951. Bull Lea's offspring earned at least $1 million in four of those years. In 1947 they set the modern record in track winning—$1,630,655.

Like racing itself, sireing is an

Cabbie Nips Thug, Gains Overcoat

BALTIMORE (AP)—Taxicab driver Melvin Benton not only resisted a holdup here last night but he also wound up with a tweed overcoat left by the man who tried to rob him.

Police said Benton reported he yelled and kicked a passenger beside him when the other passenger in the cab seized him from behind.

Both Negro passengers ran. The man who had been in the back seat left his overcoat behind.

After 28 Long Years In Jail, Man Is Freed

WINCHESTER, Va. (AP)—A World War I veteran who spent 28 years in prison on an illegal rape conviction was grateful here today for his release.

Resting at a nursing home here, Lorenzo Puffinberger, 59, said, "I sure want to thank the good people for getting me out of there."

Puffinberger was sentenced in 1926 to life imprisonment on a rape charge. He entered the state penitentiary that year and in 1937 was transferred to the criminally insane ward at Southwestern State Hospital at Marion.

Throughout his imprisonment he steadfastly maintained his innocence. With the aid of the local Red Cross chapter and the Winchester Farmers and Merchants National Bank, the case was brought before Circuit Court Judge Elliott Marshall.

Marshall ruled Thursday that Puffinberger had been convicted wrongfully in that he had been denied due process of law. Counsel for the imprisoned man presented evidence to show that he was without legal assistance when convicted in 1926, was not advised of his rights and was without the mental capacity to understand the meaning of the offense or what the charge involved.

Puffinberger, who was a farmer and timber cutter in Frederick county before going to prison, told a reporter he would like to do that work again when he gets well.

Stock Mart Hiked By Poll Results

NEW YORK (AP)—The election was a happy surprise for the stock market last week, and it celebrated with the most vigorous advance in more than 16 years.

On the way up it broke into new high ground for the last 25 years and touched off a major showing of bull market enthusiasm.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced $4.90 on the week, the most that the average has gained in a single week since the final week of June, 1938.

Traffic Lights Get Different Shapes

MOUNT DORA, Fla. (AP)—Even if you're color blind, you can tell what the traffic lights are signaling

here. Masks have been fitted over the signals to make green lights square, orange caution lights diamond shaped and red lights circles. Mayor L. L. Heaton, who ordered the system, has a good reason for favoring it. He's color blind himself.

SHIPBUILDING SLUMP

HISTORY is repeating in the nation's shipyards. Reminiscent of the period between the two world wars, shipbuilding activity has fallen off alarmingly and is continuing to slide.

Officials of major Atlantic Coast shipbuilding yards say the government's recent $460,000,000 building and repair program falls far short of keeping the industry in readiness for a possible all out mobilization for national defense.

Employment in the key Eastern Seaboard yards has plummeted from a World War II peak of 151,000 to fewer than 28,000 and is expected to dip below 20,000 next year. This reveals not only a wasteful dissipation of skills and technical know-how, but also suggests that shipbuilding research and development activity must be grinding to a halt.

It is imperative that the nation face up to the fact that its shipyards cannot operate in competition with foreign shipyards unless their costs are trimmed, in spite of huge government orders and subsidies. Surely something will be done to insure continuation of shipbuilding activity at a level that will provide employment for a sizable labor force.

With many World War II bottoms riding into obsolescence the nation may soon need ships as badly as shipyards need the work. Against these imperatives, political considerations become secondary.

CLOSING OUT SALE

SURPLUS GOODS which originally cost the government $26 million are being sold at auction at four different bases in California. Known as "Operations Jumbo," the articles have been listed in a 48-page illustrated catalogue mailed to 10,000 potential buyers in the nation and 13 foreign countries. Advance inquiries show other nations more interested in the selling event than prospects in this country.

The list includes thousands of articles ranging from railway tank cars to men's socks in large quantities. Tents and tarpaulins costing nearly $1.5 million will go on the block. Under stress of war the government spent money freely for every possible need, and often seemingly with poor judgment. For instance, nearly one million auto, truck and bus lamps are offered for sale. The boys who placed that order must have set their sights high.

With exception of the goods which will go to foreign countries, most of this merchandise will go to surplus goods brokers, later to be distributed through retailers. The goods are new and unused, and the government expects to take a terrific loss on the transactions. War is waste, and vice versa.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

As the election figures are studied, no trend is found, no unmistakable public response to any great party pronouncements or a public challenge to party officials. It is impossible to say that the election was pro- or anti-Eisenhower.

The narrow margins are convincing that the Republicans might have managed to win hands down had they not, with characteristic ineptitude, embroiled themselves in intra-party conflicts in several states. On that, of course, there will be wide disagreement both as to cause and effect and one can let the subject pass without too much concern at this time.

The question is of the future. President Eisenhower continues to speak of the moderate approach to public problems which describes inadequately what that approach is. Who desires an immoderate approach and what is the nature of it? Until we know the extremities, it is impossible ever to know where the middle is. In Roosevelt's time, the phrase used to be "left of center," with the center undefined. Perhaps the reason for this queer election is that no one can truly state what anyone believes to be the truth.

During the campaign, when it was generally held that the Democrats, supported by organized labor, would win an enormous victory, it was often suggested that President Eisenhower would declare himself as a one-term President, that he would not run in 1956.

No authority was ever cited for such a statement, but it was, from a political standpoint, a confusing one, because if it becomes generally believed, it can increase the conflicts within the Republican Party by stimulating too many ambitions. It is true that President Eisenhower has made no public pronouncement on the subject.

It is customary in the United States for a President to run for two terms, even if he is not always elected to the second term. President Eisenhower is entitled to a second chance in 1956 and it ought to be understood that he will take it. If that is now iterated, Republican aspirants will have to step back to await their opportunity.

No one in the Republican Party comes out of this election so greatly confirmed by the American people as to be an outstanding contestant for President Eisenhower's post. There still is no successor in party leadership to Senator Robert A. Taft.

In the Democratic Party, no one has created for himself so great a reputation as to be outstanding. While Adlai Stevenson assumed active leadership in the campaign, making speeches almost daily all over the country, the result of the election is not sufficient to establish that his participation in the campaign made much difference.

No other Democratic personality emerged as an astonishing figure, except J. Strom Thurmond, whose write-in victory was surprising to the country, but which undoubtedly was the result of special local conditions in South Carolina with which other parts of the country are not familiar.

Averell Harriman, whom friends before Election Day were grooming for the Presidential nomination, received too narrow a majority to be regarded as significant from a national standpoint. He may now even have difficulty in controlling the New York (Continued on Page Seven)

Importance of Sports In School Boy's Life

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

WITH college and high school football in full swing, school sports are again playing an important part in the lives of many youths.

Unfortunately, however, there are some boys who have a tendency to slight this side of life or to stay away from it entirely. Some youths feel their studies need all their attention. Still others are listless, or feel it is just too much trouble to spend spare time at sports.

He Loses By Shirking

Sports do have a place in just about everyone's life. The youth who shirks the school athletic program is, as a rule, cheating himself.

You may seem to be awkward when it comes to sports. But that is all the more reason why you should want to polish up your performance in some of them.

Outlet for Tensions

Many times you will find that sports programs open up pleasant social opportunities you might not otherwise have had. Then, too, a sport is a fine outlet for mental and emotional tensions throughout your adult life.

You don't have to be an expert.

You do not even have to be reasonably proficient, although you probably will become so. The main thing is that you enjoy yourself.

It might be well if every teenage boy in our modern times learned at least one of the techniques of self-defense, such as boxing, wrestling or judo. It would also be wise to learn some sport or games that you can carry through the rest of your life, such as golf, archery and the like.

Any boy can find some enjoyable outdoor activity. You will pick up these techniques much more easily in your early teens than if you wait until you are older.

And, remember, the individual who develops his body as well as his brain is a fully developed person.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

L. F.: What foods are beneficial to a person with a low blood count?

Answer: By low blood count is meant a lessening of the number of red cells in the blood and the amount of coloring in blood cells known as hemoglobin.

Foods rich in iron, such as meat, particularly liver, green vegetables, egg yolk, and whole grain cereals are helpful. Some iron-containing preparations may be utilized, under the doctor's direction.

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE

EILEEN FORTUNE gazed at me with big eyes, her small mouth trembling. Her face looked puffy and her gray, wide-spaced eyes were swollen and red. A strand of blond hair fell over one cheek. She wore a faded high-necked nightgown of a soft cotton material which, I recalled, used to be called muslin, and her feet were bare.

I started to speak, but she cut me off. "It's Ralph," she moaned. "He's gone." She began to sob loudly, her face contorted in an ugly mask of grief.

"No, listen—" "He's dead!" she cried. "You've come to tell me he's dead. Don't try to spare me." Her sobs grew louder. "Judy killed him!"

"I grasped her shoulders. 'No, he's not dead.' She stopped sobbing and gazed at me wildly. 'Tell me the truth!'

"Get hold of yourself. Ralph's just the same. Is your father home?" "W-what?" "Is your father home?" "No."

"I'm sorry to have alarmed you. Where is your father?" "In town, I guess," she said in a dead voice. "He brought me home from the hospital, and then left. He's probably at Dan's Place. I've tried to make him change his ways, but he persists in drinking, and..." Her voice trailed off and she began to dry her eyes with a sleeve of the nightgown.

I handed her a handkerchief, and said, "I saw him at Dan's Place earlier this evening, and I thought he'd be home by now."

She took the handkerchief and dabbed at her red eyes. "I-I couldn't sleep," she said brokenly, "thinking about poor, dear Ralph."

I patted her shoulder in what I hoped was a fatherly manner. The shoulder was round and firm and warm beneath the thin nightgown. "Do you think your father will be home pretty soon?"

"I-I don't know," she used my handkerchief to blow her nose. "Sometimes he stays out all night. I just don't care about anything any more. All I can think about is Ralph, lying there in the hospital. She took a deep shuddering breath and her breasts moved beneath the nightgown. "Papa could have stayed with me tonight, of all nights. I've been so lonely, and afraid."

She lowered her eyes. "It's just little old me," she sniffed, "out here all alone..."

I backed away and put a hand on the door knob.

She took a tiny step toward me. "Papa will probably be gone all night. On Saturday nights he often plays cards, or something, until daylight." She sighed forlornly.

I tried to tell Ralph Holts because I was jealous and I did not want to tell you.

morning and fumbled at the high neck of the nightgown.

I opened the door. The cold air felt good on my face, but Eileen Fortune shivered and folded her arms over her breasts. "It's cold," she said plaintively. "Please close the door." She inched toward me, shivering.

I put an arm around her. There wasn't much else I could do. She huddled against me. "Close the door," she said with chattering teeth.

I kicked the door shut.

She said, "Are you going back to Cleveland tomorrow?"

"I don't know."

"You might stay—because of Ralph?"

"Maybe—Sandy will want to stay."

"And you, too?" She looked up at me shyly.

"Why?"

"I—I just wondered."

I said gently, "Go back to bed, Eileen. I'll see your father later."

Her eyes were bewildered. "Are you—angry with little old me?"

"No. Good-night, Eileen." I opened the door and went out.

As I drove away I saw that Eileen hadn't turned off the light, and I thought of all the lights in the windows tonight—Daisy Brown's, Judy Kirkland's, Sandy's, Eileen's, Candies lighting the way for those abroad in the night, for all the wayward ones...

It was after one o'clock in the morning when I drove past Daisy Brown's dark house, and on to River Road, and I turned in the moonlight and kept on until I came to Judy Kirkland's sanctuary. The drapes were pulled, but there was a light downstairs. The red Buick convertible was still in the drive. I stopped behind it, making no effort to be quiet. I was tired of skulking about, and besides I had a half-date with Judy Kirkland. I slammed the Dodge's door, went up to the front door and rattled the brass knocker. No response. I tried the door. It was unlocked, and I walked in.

"Judy," I called, and I kept moving until I reached the bar. This was where the light was, but she wasn't there. I looked into the kitchen. Light from behind me showed the table, the two coffee cups, a saucer filled with cigar stubs. The whole house was very quiet. Uneasily I turned around. The room looked the same. The typewriter was still on the table. There was something different about it. Suddenly I knew what it was; there was a sheet of paper in it. I moved over and looked at the paper, and the typed words on it.

I tried to tell Ralph Holts because I was jealous and I did not want to tell you.

ELEGY — (EL-eh-ji) — noun; a lyrical poem, often a lament, especially of unrequited love; now, chiefly a poem of lamentation for the dead. Origin: French—Elegie from Latin—Elegia, from Greek—Elegia, from Elegos, from Elegos, a song of mourning.

YOUR FUTURE

Your business prospects look reasonably good, but exercise care in all your affairs, and avert quarrels. Today's child should be ambitious and a hard worker.

True glory consists in doing what deserves to be written; in writing what deserves to be read; and in so living as to make the world happier and better for our living in it.—Pliny.

FOLKS OF FAME—GUESS THE NAME

1—His dad was a well-known screen actor, so show business is probably in his blood. He looks like his late father, too, and sounds like him. He was born in Hollywood, but even so, he did not find breaking into the movies a snap. Since he made the grade his pictures include Short Grass, Sierra Passage, the Gun-fighter, West Point Story, Honey-chile, At Sword's Point, Wait Till the Sun Shines, Nellie, Big Trees, Lady in the Iron Mask, Springfield Rifle, Man Behind the Gun. He's on television, too, playing a typical American in the TV show, Biff Baker, U.S.A. What is his name?

2—We go back into United States history for him, as he was born on Nov. 21, 1785, in Lebanon, Conn. He was an Army surgeon, pioneer in gastric physiology. He was licensed in 1812 and commissioned a surgeon's mate in the war of that year. After the war he resigned and established private practice in Plattsburg, but enlisted again in 1820 and was assigned to Fort Mackinac, Mich., as surgeon. The subject of this sketch made scientific studies of digestion, the relative digestibility of certain foods, etc., the studies resulting in the publication of Experiments and Observations on the Gastric Juice and the Physiology of Digestion (1833) which was revolutionary at the time, and much of which is still valid. NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

news behind the news

WASHINGTON—Federal judges, including the Supreme Court of the United States, are upholding Franklin D. Roosevelt's forecast that his reforms would survive, despite the election of Republican Presidents and Congresses. He and Harry S. Truman appointed 80 per cent of the federal judiciary. The Democrats still control this important branch of government.

The Supreme Court, which has only two Republican members, recently blocked the Administration's attempt to replace Roosevelt-Truman Democrats in key offices with members of the one true party.

The second highest and Democrat-staffed court in the land, the District of Columbia appeals bench, has, perhaps stymied the Administration in the case of Owen Lattimore, a Roosevelt-Truman adviser, under question as pro-Communist in his sympathies.

COURTS—Even with the election returns, it is the party which controls the courts that runs the country. And only age and death, together with Republican inabundance of the White House for many years, will alter the current equation. It is a neglected factor which the voters rarely keep in mind.

The victorious Republicans set out in 1953 to create vacancies for worthy party servants, who had helped to elect Eisenhower. They did not do it so audaciously as James A. Farley, postmaster general and patronage dictator in 1933, after F.D.R.'s inaugural.

RULING—"Jim" announced boldly that Democratic allegiance alone was not a qualification for a government job. They had to be "Democrats F.R.B.C.," meaning "Democrats for Roosevelt before Chicago," where the 1932 convention had been held. If they had been for Al Smith, Newton D. Baker or Jack Garner, they were out.

It was the most brazen proclamation of the installation of the spoils system since the days of Martin Van Buren and Andrew Jackson. But the country—and, presumably, the courts—thought it a great joke, and roared with laughter—except those who lost their jobs.

ACTIVITIES—Farley then proceeded to get rid of Republicans and to outwit the Civil Service Commission, then a complacent, do-nothing body, in devious ways.

On the ground of economy, F.D.R. abolished, downgraded or renamed the assignments of thousands of federal employees supposedly under Civil Service protection.

When the Republicans were squeezed out by this scheme, they were replaced with Democrats "before Chicago." To secure their positions, Roosevelt and Truman persuaded Democratic Congresses (they did not need much persuasion) to blanket these appointees under Civil Service. Thus, they became political "untouchables."

APPROACH—The Eisenhower Administration has approached the problem more delicately, albeit efficiently. To get rid of Democratic holdovers, it has elevated many posts to so-called "policy-making" stature. Under such a classification, the White House insists, they can be fired and replaced by a Republican.

But a Justice Department lawyer, holding a $10,800-a-year job, was discharged, mortgaged his home to pay legal fees, and fought this edict in the courts. The Department of Justice reclassified the lawyer was sustained by the District of Columbia district court, but it was reversed by the appeals court in the same jurisdiction. The Roosevelt-Truman Supreme Court refused to review the appeals ruling, fouting the administration's belated attempt to reward party producers of votes.

IRRITATED—The Lattimore decision by Judge Luther W. Youngdahl, who was promoted to the federal bench from the Minnesota Republican governorship for obvious political reasons by Truman, burns President Eisenhower and Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr. Lawyers and judges everywhere are excited over this episode.

Lattimore was condemned by the McCarran committee as an "articulate instrument" of Communist ideas. He was indicted on numerous counts of perjury for denying this and other charges. Youngdahl dismissed the major charges, although government counsel insists that they involve facts to be weighed by a jury.

Youngdahl refused to disqualify himself from trying the anti-Lattimore case, and denounced Brownell for asking that he step aside. He simply emphasized the fact that, as F.D.R. said, the Congress may pass laws, but "my courts" will interpret and execute them!

Even police officers, used to all kinds of criminal quirks, blinked their eyes when a gent in Norfolk, Va., made off with all four tires of a car but spurned a well-filled purse and diamond ring on the front seat. The car owner found this note next to the ring: "Roses are red; violets are blue; we admire your jewels but your tires are new." A hardened criminal, with a flair for poetry, opined the court. Not at all, demurred Pundit E. B. White: a plain case of a confirmed poet who was willing to go to any length in order to place his composition. We string along with Mr. White.

E. B. White tells about a minor adventure in his days as a cub reporter. He was covering the morgue when a man was called in for possible identification of his wife. Somebody pulled back the sheet. The man took one agonizing look and cried, "My God! It's her!" That's how White reported the incident. His city editor, a stickler for proper English, changed it to, "My God! That's she!"

Child Culture League Members Talk On Polio

Mrs. Robert Moyer and Mrs. Tom Harder gave addresses on polio during a regular meeting of the Child Culture League.

Mrs. Moyer and Mrs. Harder told of recent cases of polio in Pickaway County and how the polio foundation assisted these victims and their families. They also stressed the proper procedure when polio strikes in a family.

Mrs. Ben Metzger was hostess to the group in the home of her mother, Mrs. Leslie Weiler of Circleville Route 2. Mrs. William Thornton served as assisting hostess for the meeting.

During a business session, the club made plans to fill a basket for a needy family at Thanksgiving. Initial plans also were made to hold an annual Christmas party for the members of the club and their children.

A Thanksgiving theme was featured during a social hour. Members gave their favorite prayer or poem in keeping with the season. Refreshments were served at the close of the session by the hostesses.

STORMY TIMES FORESEEN FOR MANY '55 HOLIDAYS

Long-Range Year-Around Weather Forecast Again Features Almanac's 163rd Edition

By Central Press

DUBLIN, N. H.—It may seem a trifle early, but here's a tip in planning your next summer's vacation—take the two weeks spanning Labor Day!

Don't take our word for it, for this tip comes from that prince of prognosticators—old Abraham Weatherwise, the mythical sooth-sayer who again gives his year-around weather forecasts in rhyme in the 1955 edition of The Old Farmer's Almanac, just published.

Old Abe has been famous for accurately calling the turn many times on sunshine and storm, months in advance, and he's at it again in the newest edition of The Old Farmer's Almanac.

Nineteen Fifty-Five, according to The Old Farmer's Almanac (which, incidentally, has been in continuous publication for 163 years!), will start rough and end rough with some mighty nice weather sandwiched in between.

STORMY weather is forecast for New Year's Day, but Lincoln's and Washington's Birthdays should be clear and fine. Most of 1955 holidays, however, are in for a rough time.

Cold winds could make it chilly going for St. Patrick's Day parades, Easter will be cold and foggy, and says Old Abe, we can expect "A four shower" for Memorial Day. He also sees "Plenty of thunder from way up yonder" on Independence Day.

Following a salubrious Labor Day, Columbus Day also bids fair to bring us fine weather. A north-easter "double prolonged," however, should make things mighty chilly come Thanksgiving. Christmas should be very white; in fact, Old Abe says, "Winter really here the worst in many a year."

THE WEATHER forecasts of Abe Weatherwise are primarily for New England and the east and The Almanac cautions that readers should deduct one day for each time zone west of East Standard Time.

The Old Farmer's Almanac which was established 'way back in 1792 by Robert H. Thomas is, to its faithful readers, far more than just a popular annual guide to weather, farmer's calendar, best planting times, etc., but a classic of its kind and a national institution.

Gas Tanks Filled With Plain Water

WEBSTER, Mass. (AP)—When irate motorists began turning up in droves, two local gas station owners found out they had been filling gas tanks with water.

After much confusion, a great deal of free towing and carburetor cleaning, the blame was placed on a tank truck shipment made by a Worcester distributor—1,000 gallons of water to one dealer and 850 gallons to the other.

The explanation was that an empty truck had been filled with water to make it ride more easily when returning from a delivery. But someone overlooked that when the truck was hauled out of the company yards to make the Webster deliveries.

Yule Trading Prospects Said To Be Cheering

Most Merchants See Big Season Ahead With Sales Climbing

NEW YORK (AP)—Christmas trade prospects—with customers believed in a better buying mood than last year—cheer merchants in most cities.

Prices on gifts will be about the same or a little lower this year. But many store owners are expecting to equal and maybe surpass last year's dollar sales volume. Since the largest trading of the year is crowded into the final weeks, the results of the holiday selling make or break the year's earnings record for most stores.

Promotion plans are well along. The National Retail Dry Goods Assn. reports most member stores plan to match last year's record advertising.

The trade is going in heavily this year for gift packaging. A large array of items will be decked out in holiday grab to lure the shopper. Some of the packages are designed for double duty—made usable as containers of various sorts after the gift is removed.

This year merchants will have the advantage of one more shopping day between Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Some 12 million Americans will receive more than one billion dollars in Christmas Club checks this month, for a new record high. Retailers expect almost half of that sum to be spent for Christmas gifts.

And Americans are about as well heeled this year as last. The commerce departments estimates that, after paying taxes, Americans will have had about 253 billion dollars to spend this year. Some of that should still be available for Christmas buying.

The NRDC reports three-fourths of the merchants expect business to be satisfactory this holiday season. The majority say they look for enough of an increase in trade in the next six weeks to bring sales volume for 1954 up to last year's total. So far this year, sales have trailed by about two per cent.

Some merchants are rather gloomy about the profit outlook. Rising operating costs have cut into profit margins and more than a third of the merchants expect their net earnings after taxes will be lower than last year.

Store executives say there's a distinct trend this year toward religious scenes for window displays. Some merchants who tried this last year report that this helped answer a growing criticism in recent years of the commercializing of Christmas.

Imported gifts will equal or top last year's selection, merchants say. Toys, novelties and children's articles lead the list of imports. Britain will be a heavy supplier of goods for the Christmas trade. But Germany has made the biggest gain in this market this year, with increased gift imports reported also from Japan and Italy.

Sales of toys are expected to top last year's volume and to approach the billion dollar mark at retail for the first time. With the number of small fry increasing every year, the toy makers are a pretty happy breed.

Merchants are counting on customers being more generous in their gift buying this year, because now the economy is on the uptick, while last Christmas people were worried about their jobs because the economy was sliding from the peak hit in mid-1953.

Retailers always keep their fingers crossed, however, when the cold and blustering days just before a Christmas could cut heavily into store traffic. And many a good intention about being generous in gift buying might die aborning and never materialize as a jingle in the stores' tills.

Bishop Lashes Detractors Of U.S. Teachers

DES MOINES (AP)—"Men who declare that in every little red schoolhouse there is a little Red teacher bear false witness that is well nigh treason," Methodist Bishop G. Gromley Oxnam of Washington, D. C., told the Iowa State Education Assn. here Saturday.

Bishop Oxnam declared that "the teaching profession deserves better treatment at the hands of the American people."

"It is unfair and un-American," he said, "to call upon our teachers to serve in crowded classrooms and in antiquated structures for inadequate remuneration. But what is even worse, the teacher has had to face the criticism of ignoramuses who have gratuitously questioned the teacher's patriotism."

Bishop Oxnam said "self-appointed illiterates have organized agencies under high sounding names for the alleged purpose of saving our schools from subversion" and have "contributed to undermining the very bastion of the free way of life." He added:

"No Communist could want more than to have the American lose faith in our school system."

The bishop said it is the duty of each community to mobilize "the necessary resistance to these forces of the night."

World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. McCarthy fights like Henry Armstrong, the perpetual motion man to win three world titles in the 30s with this stock-in-trade: ever step back, punch, punch, and get the fancy footwork.

Even the Wisconsin Republican's enemies must concede he is one of the most aggressive politicians of the 20th century. But he has reached a point where he may have to change his style or wind up flat on his political back.

It was his style that got him no trouble. His problem is: Can he change it?

He made his reputation as a communist hunter. His record as lawmaker is not particularly distinguished. He was a comparative unknown, outside Wisconsin, for the first four years after his election to the Senate in 1946.

When he hit on the theme of Reds-in-government in 1950, he began to slug his way out of oblivion. He had cooled off after his first sensational charges he might have slipped back into obscure status.

Instead, he kept his name in the headlines by attack, attack, attack. He didn't back-pedal when he was going rough. He just belted the other guy. It was how he became king of the featherweights, the lightweight and welterweights.

McCarthy became a national figure the same way. Trying to corner him didn't slow him up. He kept moving in, belting away, throwing charges from all directions.

As it turned out, he was a little too rough for his own good. The Senate, four years after he had become a sensational figure, decided it was time to see whether he needed a dressing down.

He himself predicts he will be censured by the Senate, returning today to consider charges that his conduct toward others, including senators, was contemptuous and defying a senator.

McCarthy refers to what lies in store for him as "lynching bee," which, all by itself, might be considered contemptuous of the Senate since it implies that body is a mob of vigilantes.

But it's typical McCarthy. Here he is, in the worst jam of his life, sitting at a majority of the Senate when though he knows the verdict that majority may in the end mean the ruin of his political life.

To be censured is, in a sense, to be discredited. It is the same as calling a foul on a fighter. It would mean his fellows thought he didn't meet the standards of what a senator should be.

Next to throwing him out altogether, a vote of censure is the worst verdict the Senate could render against him. Throwing him out doesn't seem in the cards.

McCarthy could still vote, if censured. He wouldn't lose his seat, at least before the 1958 elections when his second term ends.

Another man, censured, might be

A BANNER CALLING for the "liberation" of Nationalist-held Formosa is prominent in the parade of thousands of Red soldiers and civilians as they observe "National Day" in Peking. Communist officials have repeatedly indicated that an all-out attack on Chiang Kai-shek's stronghold may be imminent.

so humiliated he'd turn meek forever. That's hardly in McCarthy's nature. He's naturally too aggressive to take a setback as permanent.

In fact, he could hardly afford to go back into oblivion again unless he's willing to let his political career end without a further fight. He has no place to go but forward.

But how is he going forward? How is he going to stay in the headlines by the same tactics that got him into trouble now. The next time the Senate verdict, with the Democrats in control, might be more drastic.

But if his free-swinging style is cramped — if he has to think of the consequences for himself every time he wants to act or speak in the future — will he be the same McCarthy? It's something he has to think about.

It's possible he may not be able to change, that he's too much himself for that. But that he'll fight, somehow, to keep himself a national figure seems certain. If he loses that, he loses everything.

He's probably already lost some of his following, and much public interest. Reports from the political fronts in the last campaign said he wasn't much of an issue.

Boy, 14, Saves Twins In Blaze

CLEVELAND (AP)—A 14-year-old boy rescued six-year-old twin girls Saturday from a three-story apartment house where fire blocked a hallway and stairwell.

Clyde Felder, the boy, got out of his first-floor room in the building, then ran back through smoke and flames to save the little girls, Marilyn and Carolyn Carr, who were stumbling around in fright in a smoke-filled room of the third floor. He carried them to a fire escape and dropped them 10 feet from a landing to the arms of James Priest, 33, another resident of the apartment.

5 More Iranian Officers Executed

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—An Army firing squad at dawn today executed five more officers convicted of spying for Soviet Russia.

To date 20 officers of the army, police or air force and one civilian have been executed in the crackdown on the widespread Red spy ring. An estimated 650 officers and civilians have been arrested in the roundup.

Grandma 'Hooked' In Poker Game

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A poker-playing grandmother has filed a $100,000 damage suit against an accountant, charging she won a poker hand from him but came out second best in an argument that followed.

Mrs. Hesper McGee, 57, alleged that last Oct. 2, while she was participating in a legal game at the Normandie Club in Gardena, Linn Weinstock, 36, closed his fist around a stack of chips and struck her down.

The petition said the club, also named as a defendant, failed to protect its patrons.

U.S. Visit Planned

delegation to the next Democratic Convention.

The elimination of Thomas E. Dewey as a political leader in New York cannot be ignored. Three times elected as Governor, twice a candidate for President, organizer of the nomination of Dwight Eisenhower at the 1952 Republican Convention, Dewey could not carry his chosen successor, Irving Ives, to victory.

The narrowness of the Harriman vote indicates that Ives could have won were there not a protest refusal to vote in the election by enough Republicans to make a difference. The defeat of Ives makes Jacob Javits, the Attorney General, the leader of his party in the State. Javits is closely connected with the Liberal Party and therefore he is likely to continue to be conservative Republicans.

In the New York situation, where men do unfortunately vote along religious and racial lines, in recent elections a tendency has appeared to substitute an Italian Catholic for an Irish Catholic in both parties. An analysis of election districts would indicate that the Irish Catholic Democrats have reasserted their strength by rejecting Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., for Attorney General. He lost in strictly Democratic districts to Jacob Javits, a Republican with Liberal Party leanings, who is a Jew. This unusual result was anticipated by nobody.

They plan to talk with American labor leaders and see how things are done in U. S. coal and steel industries.

Drivers Are Seen ... But Not Hood

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP)—The battery in Harold Davis' car failed, and friend Donald Parrish started pushing, walking along on the driver's side. Suddenly the motor caught, and the car jerked forward. Parrish leaped onto a fender, then crawled onto the hood as the car gained speed.

Davis' vision was impaired because Parrish was sitting in front of him and he sideswiped a car.

Davis was fined $10 for reckless driving and Parrish $9 for "sitting on the hood."

Mayor In Germany Challenges Yanks

BAMBERG, Germany (AP)—Mayor Luitpold Weegmann has challenged American authorities to use force if they want three Regnitz River bridges here prepared for demolition in case of war.

He ordered Bamberg police this week to bar U.S.-employed German workers who are installing explosives in strategic West German roads and bridges as a part of Allied defense planning.

Saddle Horse Club Planned For 4-H

Final plans are now underway to start a 4-H Saddle Horse Club.
Several brood mares have been made available and the committee is now ready to place these mares out in the county.

The committee in charge of this program includes: Dr. F. P. Dunlap, Emmitt Ebenhack, Mrs. J. E.
Groom and Thelma Burtner.

The committee will furnish a bred mare to the ones selected to be in the club. The members will care for the mare and its colt. The colt will become the property of the member and he will return the mare to the committee.

The members receiving the mare will organize as a 4-H Riding Horse Club. The committee will act as advisors to the club and instruct the members in the proper care of their riding horses.

Those interested in this program may contact county extension office. There is still time to make your application for this club.

Powder Bowl Game Is Won By Xi Deltas

ATHENS (AP)—After seven years, Alpha Xi Delta ran up its first win over Pi Beta Phi yesterday, 7-0, in the annual Powder Bowl game at Ohio University.

In a game distinguished for lumps, bumps and black eyes, the two smooth-working coed gridiron groups drew $700 for the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund.

Fleet halfback Barbara Watson, weighing only 110 pounds including good will, ducked around right end and sped goalward 34 yards for the score.

Nancy Minto collected a pass from team captain Dietz Dengler for the extra point.

Diligence on both sides was notable in yesterday's game. For while the first clash in 1947 was more of a sedate gavotte, yesterday's play was described by observers as "very sincere."

Included in the Pi Beta Phi team lineup were Barbara Campbell, Circleville; Marilyn Gamwell, Glouster; Claudette Chapel, Athens; Myra Jane Blair, Chillicothe.

Also in the Alpha Xi Delta roster were Shirley Guisinger, Ashland; Carol Braun, Steubenville;

Perfect Football List Down To 32

NEW YORK (AP)—The list of the nation's unbeaten college football teams was down to 32 today after five dropped out of the coveted group over the weekend.

Five of the 32 are major schools and include the first four ranked teams UCLA, Ohio State, Oklahoma and Arkansas—plus Cincinnati. The shrinking group lost one member last Saturday when Miami of Florida bowed to Auburn.

Four of the select teams are from Ohio. Cincinnati has eight consecutive victories, while Ohio State, Miami and Ashland have seven wins each.

Johnny Mize hit 539 home runs in the major leagues playing for the Cardinals, Giants and Yankees.

Marilyn Douglas, Mt. Sterling and Dietz Dengler, Zanesville.

Frank Smith, 26-year old relief pitcher for the Cincinnati Redlegs, appeared in 50 games during 1954.

California horse players failed to cash more than $400,000 worth of winning pari-mutuel tickets in 1953.

BRUSSELS BUSY PREPARING FOR 1958 WORLD'S FAIR

This model shows a group of buildings now under construction and which will house part of the 1958 World's Fair exhibits.

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
Central Press Correspondent

BRUSSELS, Belgium—Little Belgium, with only 8,500,000 people, is being mobilized once again, this time not for war but for a great peaceful undertaking.

Here in the Belgian capital will open in 1958 the first postwar world's fair. More than 25 million people are expected to visit the displays that will be on exhibition from April through October.

Indicative of the scope of the undertaking, the Belgian government initiated plans for the Brussels world's fair six years ago and estimates it will spend $200 million on it. Millions more will be spent by the 56 foreign nations and the numerous international organizations invited to participate.

A minimum of 125,000 visitors are expected daily, with as many as 250,000 on some peak days. The Brussels fair will be the first grand international exposition to be held since those in New York and San Francisco in 1939 and 1940 when war brought 20 years of peace to a thundering end.

The Belgian government says the Brussels fair will be comparable to the New York world's fair, the most ambitious of its kind ever held.

New permanent buildings will be erected, new roads will be built and old ones improved, huge parking areas created, and hotels constructed.

THE BRUSSELS AIRPORT will be made into the world's most modern. A helicopter service will be initiated between the center of Brussels and the fair grounds, which will be located four and a half miles away.

Approximately 450 acres, described by the Belgian government as "a magnificently planted area," will be the site of the fair. Three palaces are already in the area, ready for use, and a fourth palace will be erected.

The palaces will constitute the center of the Belgian section, to be completed by temporary pavilions representing principal industrial groups. A large area has been reserved for the Belgian Congo exhibit.

Foreign countries will be allocated 200,000 square meters space for building their halls along the avenues branching out from the main entrance gates. This space is surrounded by gardens and flower beds.

In addition to the 56 governments invited to participate, most of them, including the U.S., have indicated they will do so, the Belgians have also tendered invitations to the United Nations, the International Red Cross, the European Coal and Steel community, and other world groups.

THE BRUSSELS FAIR will focus its attention on Man as the most significant factor in the progress of our century. In doing so, it will strive to be a major vehicle of international appreciation and understanding.

In explaining the purpose of the fair, the Belgian government stated: "Its exhibits will permit the people of the world to see at first hand how far humanity has progressed in a generation and how much has been contributed to this progress by individual peoples."

"Every nation, as well as today's large international organizations, will be given an opportunity to display its accomplishments in the spheres of social and technological progress and to exhibit pertinent characteristics of its industry, science and art."

Baron Moens de Fernig has been named commissioner general of the fair, a position comparable to that held by Grover Whalen at the New York world's fair. Fernig, 54, is a Belgian businessman who served in the Belgian cabinets from 1947 to 1949 as minister for supply and imports and minister of foreign trade.

McNamara cracked out a pair of touchdowns Saturday to vault into a tie with Earl Smith of Iowa for the lead in the Big Ten scoring.

Smith, undisputed leader for three successive weeks, scored once Saturday in Iowa's victory over Purdue, giving him 54 points.

Bobby Watkins of Ohio State remained in the running with a pair of touchdowns, giving him 51.

The figures include all games played by Big Ten teams.

County Six-Man Football Program Earns Profit Of $810.47

5 Teams Play Only 4 Games At Fairgrounds

Experiment Termed Very Big Success After First Effort

Pickaway County's six-man football experiment of playing all the games at the Fairgrounds has paid off to the tune of an $810.47 profit for the 1954 season.

Howard Hosler, superintendent of Walnut Township School and manager of the six-man football program, revealed the good news in a financial report late last week.

The four games which were played resulted in receipts of $913.85. Expenses took up $256.82. However, refreshments brought in an additional profit of $153.44.

The money is distributed evenly to the five participating schools: Walnut, Ashville, Jackson, Deercreek and Pickaway. This arrangement was decided upon before the season got under way.

HOSLER DONATED his $50 salary for the manager job to the schools. However, the superintendents voted to return the money to him adding that his efforts were worth even more.

George McDowell, county superintendent of schools, voiced his pleasure at the financial and attendance success of the six man program. He added that plans are already being considered for the 1955 season.

Miss Helen Irwin, a commercial teacher at Walnut Township School, prepared the following financial report:

GIs Help Destroy Lonesome Elephant

AUGSBURG, Germany (AP)—Bosco, a dangerously love-sick circus elephant, was shot down last weekend by U. S. soldiers manning 50 caliber machineguns mounted on two jeeps.

The troops had been called on to guard the four-ton beast after he went berserk Thursday, breaking loose and injuring his trainer.

Fearful the 19-year-old bull elephant might kill somebody, the owner asked the soldiers to destroy him. Circus men blamed Bosco's bad temper on his lack of a girl friend.

Now! CLINIC-TESTED SURIN RELIEVES RHEUMATIC PAIN* IN MINUTES OR PAY NOTHING!

SURIN is an original contribution in the field of relieving pain of arthritis and rheumatism. Don't take our word for it! But you can take the word of doctors in a great clinic where SURIN was tested for months on long-standing rheumatic cases.

For ethical reasons we cannot print the clinic's name but you are urged to write for this information. Here's what these doctors found! SURIN's unique ingredient, acetyl beta methyl choline, penetrates deeply, rapidly to step up the power of its analgesic drug at the point of pain—just where you apply it and need it most—in three out of four cases! Acetyl beta methyl choline also increases the period of effective pain relief at the point of pain; and with relief of pain, patients often experience greater freedom of joint movement. That's what the doctors reported and it was of significant importance to be published in the scientific press.

Isn't SURIN worth your trial, if you are suffering the pain and misery of rheumatism. And SURIN works without stomach upsets which can be caused by internal dosing because you simply spread it on at the point of pain—remember, it works so fast!

A COMPLETELY NEW KIND OF CREAM OINTMENT
Don't expect SURIN to look or act like other "rub-on—rub-in" salves or liniments. It is not harsh or blistering. SURIN gives the skin a pleasant, mild, cooling sensation to overcome the local heat caused by congestion. SURIN is pure white—pleasant to use—goes on smoothly, washes off quickly and is harmless to clothing!

CROSS-SECTION OF SKIN
PENETRATES TO THE POINT OF PAIN

SURIN IS SWIFT BECAUSE IT'S DIRECT!
SURIN acts more directly and quickly than many internal pain relievers. It starts to act as soon as you apply it—quick—at the point of pain! You simply smooth it on where you ache and get relief in minutes!

COMFORTING RELIEF OR MONEY BACK! Get a jar of SURIN today and use as directed. Get blessed relief in minutes or drugist must refund purchase price—no questions asked!

FREE SAMPLE!—Try Surin for yourself at our expense. Get a free trial package today at your drugist. If he hasn't got it, send postcard for free sample to McKesson & Robbins, Inc., P.O. Box 548, Bridgeport, Conn.
